

U. S. Proposes World Rule Of Atomic Energy Without Veto; Discard Bombs

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

New York, June 14 (AP)—The United States today proposed to the world the creation of an International Atomic Development Authority to handle atomic energy and agreed to destroy its own stock of atom bombs and cease manufacturing them if an adequate control system is set up.

The United States made it crystal clear that there must be no veto power in any part of the framework it was proposing for the development and peaceful use of atomic energy.

It called for renunciation of the atom bomb as an instrument of warfare and for a world security program "Not composed merely of pious thoughts but of enforceable sanctions—and international law with teeth in it."

Bernard M. Baruch, 75-year-old financier who played a leading role in this country's victories in both world wars, laid the United States' atomic cards on the table at the first meeting of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, on which he is the U. S. representative.

Out As Weapon

Addressing himself to "My fellow citizens of the world," Baruch said the United States "Proposes the creation of an International Atomic Development Authority, to which should be entrusted all phases of the development and use of atomic energy."

"When an adequate system for control of atomic energy, including the renunciation of the bomb as a weapon, has been agreed upon and put into effective operation and condign (suitable) punishments set up for the violations of the rules of control which are to be stigmatized as international crimes," Baruch said, "We proposed that:

"1. Manufacture of atomic bombs shall stop;

"2. Existing bombs shall be disposed of pursuant to the terms of the treaty, and

Punish Peace Violators

"3. The authority shall be in possession of full information as to the know-how for the production of atomic energy.

"My country is ready to make its full contribution toward the end we seek, subject of course, to our constitutional processes, and to an adequate system of control becoming fully effective, as we finally work it out," Baruch said.

The elderly statesman, whose address constituted one of the most remarkable documents yet laid before the United Nations, said the matter of punishment "lies at the very heart of our present security system."

"It might as well be admitted," he continued, "here and now, that the subject (punishment of violators of the peace) goes straight to the veto power contained in the charter of the United Nations so far as it relates to the field of atomic energy."

"The charter permits penalization only by concurrence of each of the five great powers—United States, Soviet Republics, the United Kingdom, China, France and the United States.

May Control War

"I want to make it very plain that I am concerned here with the veto power only as it affects this particular problem. There must be no veto to protect those who violate their solemn agreements not to develop or use atomic energy for destructive purposes."

Baruch envisioned control of other weapons of war and perhaps of war itself.

"Before a country is ready to relinquish any winning weapons," he said, "it must have more than words to reassure it. It must have a guarantee of safety, not only against the offenders in the atomic area, but against the illegal users of other weapons—bacteriological, biological, gas—perhaps—why not?"—against war itself."

"If we succeed in finding a suitable way to control atomic weapons," he said, "it is reasonable to hope we may also preclude the use of other weapons adaptable to mass destruction. When a man learns to say 'A' he can, if he chooses, learn the rest of the alphabet, too."

Security for Peace

"Let this be anchored in our minds:

"Peace is never long preserved by weight of metal or by an armament race. Peace can be made tranquil and secure only by understanding and agreement fortified by sanctions. We must embrace international cooperation or international disintegration."

Baruch, in proposing the international atomic development authority, said that starting with raw material it should have:

"1. Managerial control or ownership of all atomic energy activities potentially dangerous to world security.

"2. Power to control, inspect and license all other atomic activities.

"3. The duty of fostering the beneficial uses of atomic energy.

Children's Day At St. James Sunday

The program for the Children's Day activities to be held in St. James Lutheran church Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock was announced today by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Ralph R. Gresh.

A song by the school, "I Think When I Read That Sweet Story of Old" will open the program. Scripture and prayer will be followed by exercises by the nursery department and exercises by the beginners. Following a talk by Doctor Gresh the primary department will stage its program. Offering, exercises by the junior department and benediction will conclude the service.

Union Service At Presbyterian Church

The Rev. Harry S. Ecker, pastor of the Lower Marsh Creek Presbyterian church, will be the preacher for the community vesper service to be held Sunday evening at 7 o'clock in the Presbyterian church here, it was announced today. His sermon theme will be "The Glory of the Lighted Mind." There will be a vocal solo by Ernest Stover.

HOSPITAL REPORT

Jack Moser, 57 East Stevens street, received treatment at the Warner hospital Thursday afternoon following an accident at the Battlefield swimming pool where he was struck on the left side of the head by a horseshoe.

Richard Flohr, Orttanna; Mrs. Margaret White, Biglerville R. 2, and Mrs. Robert Weikert, 124 West Middle street, have been admitted as patients to the Warner hospital. Those discharged were Mrs. Robert O. Burkhardt and infant daughter, of Biglerville; Mrs. Chester Sanders, Gettysburg R. 1; Dr. Henry M. Hartman, Springs avenue, and Mrs. George Shover, West Middle street.

Birth Announcements

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Weikert, 124 West Middle street, announce the birth of a son at the Warner hospital Thursday at 5:15 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Doyle, York, announce the birth of a daughter, Thursday, at York. This is the couple's first child. Before her marriage Mrs. Doyle was Miss Patricia Jean Myers, of Gettysburg.

Mrs. Robert M. Hunt, East High street, and Mrs. Forrest Craver, South Washington street, are attending a reunion of the class of 1936 at Wilson college, Chambersburg, over the week-end.

Murphy's just received a new shipment of Enamel ware. First come first served.

May Hold Flag Day Rites In Courthouse

Announcement was made this morning that in the event of inclement weather this evening the annual Flag Day exercises will be held in the court room of the courthouse at 8 o'clock and the parade, scheduled for 7:30 o'clock, cancelled.

Dr. Harvey D. Hoover, of the Lutheran Theological seminary, will be the speaker. Attorney Richard A. Brown will serve as master of ceremonies.

EXPECTING NEW PEAK IN TRAVEL OVER WEEK-END

If the weatherman's promise of cooler and cloudy, but not rainy, weather for the week-end is carried out, Gettysburg is expecting one of its largest influxes of tourists over Saturday and Sunday.

Last week's traffic continued near expectations despite rainy periods throughout the week. Over 400 persons visited the battlefield here in regularly conducted bus tours so far this week and an additional 70 are scheduled to arrive Saturday.

Among the bus tours were 37 persons from Baltimore brought by the Monumental Motor tours Thursday; 227 persons from western and northern Pennsylvania in an R. H. Thompson tour Monday; 59 members of the Daughters of Pocomantas who came from a meeting of the Red Men in Carlisle Wednesday; 38 members of the St. Mary's Parent-Teachers Association of Annapolis on Tuesday, and another contingent of 55 in a Thompson tour on Wednesday. All dined at the Hotel Gettysburg.

Double May Figures

Saturday 70 students from the Franklin high school at Newton, N. J., will visit the battlefield and dine at the Hotel Gettysburg en route to Washington, D. C., Monday the last of the R. H. Thompson tours, numbering 186 people will arrive here to visit the field and hotel. Also scheduled to come Monday are 13 eighth graders and four adults from Easton on a tour arranged by Mrs. Robert Wierbach.

Tourist traffic over the Gettysburg battlefield over the past week-end totalled an estimated 3,700 for Saturday and Sunday, and the number of tourists during the week day's so far in June has nearly doubled over that of May, park officials said. There were 86 guided tours over the field last Sunday and 52 on Saturday. On ordinary week days during May about 30 guided tours a day were recorded while so far during June the average has been about 60.

Accepts Post As Judge's Secretary

Miss Patricia Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cole, East Stevens street, will become secretary to Judge W. C. Sheely July 1, succeeding Miss Christine Reaver, 420 West Middle street, whose resignation became effective today.

During the interim, Mrs. Paul Little, Steinhewer avenue, will act as the judge's secretary. Mrs. Little is court reporter. Miss Reaver is to be married in the near future.

Miss Cole graduated last Sunday from Mt. St. Joseph's college high school, Emmitsburg.

Lt. Maurice Weaver Starts Trip Home

First Lieutenant Maurice S. Weaver, Jr., left Salzburg, Austria, for Le Havre on the first leg of redeployment back to the United States, according to word received by his wife at her home, 103 Broadway.

Lieutenant Weaver who has served 19 months overseas celebrated his third year of service May 24. He has been awarded the combat infantryman's badge and was in the battle of Northern France. He served recently as a company commander in the 42nd Division at Salzburg.

Blue And Gray Band Adds Clarinet Player

Dale Musselman, Gettysburg, was added as a new member of the Blue and Gray band at the rehearsal-meeting Thursday evening at the engine house. He plays the clarinet.

The band members have been asked to report at the engine house at 6:30 o'clock to form for the Flag Day parade and again at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon to take part in the Democratic parade and rally program.

BOY INJURED

A 15-year-old Smithport boy, Charles Moser, one of a party of 60 school children from Mercer county who visited the battlefield Thursday, was treated by Dr. Bruce N. Wolff at the Warner hospital for a severe laceration of his forehead, suffered when he bumped his head against a girder on the observation tower on Culp's hill.

DR. BOYSON, 51, SERIOUS AFTER KNIFE WOUND

Dr. William A. Boyson, 51, 338 West Main street, Mechanicsburg, a Gettysburg college grad, discharged from active duty in the army two weeks ago as a colonel, was seriously wounded Thursday night when stabbed in the abdomen by an unidentified assailant in Washington street, near his home.

Boyson was admitted to the Carlisle hospital where attendants reported last night that his condition was fairly good, following an emergency operation which was performed immediately. Mechanicsburg and state police are seeking a man who, Doctor Boyson said, in his description, was a young man with light curly hair, wearing a white shirt and blue trousers.

Boyson told police that previous to the assault he was standing beside the car of friends when he noticed a group of boys whom he chased from a cherry tree in his yard. After the boys left, an unidentified man approached the doctor from the other side of Washington street and, following an exchange of words, stabbed Boyson with a knife, Mechanicsburg police said.

Veteran of Both Wars

Doctor Boyson is a graduate of Gettysburg college in the class of 1917 and is a veteran of both World Wars. He served in World War I from 1917 to 1919. He taught school for five years and later entered medical school. He began medical practice in 1930 after receiving his M. D. degree from Hahnemann Medical college. He is a native of Harrisburg.

Doctor and Mrs. Boyson left Gettysburg for Mechanicsburg about two weeks ago. During the war Mrs. Boyson was a sorority house mother at Gettysburg college. She is the former Marie Elizabeth Bentz of Gettysburg.

The Boysons' three sons were in the service in World War II. Doctor Boyson, who was discharged with the rank of colonel, served as medical officer with an armored battalion in the European theater.

Mrs. Boyson is a patient in the Warner hospital here. She was admitted several days ago for observation. Her condition today was described as "improved."

Peters Named To Executive Board

John Peters, Aspers, president and general manager of the Cooperative Fruit Growers of Adams county, was named as a new member of the executive board of the Pennsylvania Association of Cooperative Organizations Thursday at their 13th annual meeting at State College.

Frank Gorham, of Wysox, was elected president to succeed K. M. Souders, Coatesville.

Other officers named at yesterday's meeting were G. A. Bogner, of Allentown, vice president, and L. A. Thomas, Jr., of Harrisburg, secretary-treasurer, both re-elected.

CANCER FORUM

Gettysburg has been selected as one of ten cities in Pennsylvania at which one-day forums will be held by the Pennsylvania Division of the American Cancer Society during September and October, an Associated Press dispatch from Harrisburg revealed today. No details as to the nature of the meeting or the date when it will be held here were immediately available.

Doors To Open At 7:30 For 'Mikado'

Doors will open at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening at the Gettysburg high school auditorium where the Philadelphia Young Friends Association Players will present the popular Gilbert and Sullivan opera, "The Mikado." Curtain time is 8:15 o'clock.

Tickets for the production are on sale throughout the county and will be available at the door Saturday evening.

The production is being sponsored by the Warner Hospital Auxiliary for the benefit of the fund to provide a new kitchen for the hospital.

Accord Near In Maritime Strike Crisis

Washington, June 14 (AP)—President Truman reported today that he had been informed there was a good prospect for settling the Maritime labor crisis in time to prevent a shipping tieup tonight.

This was related by the President to his news conference, while on Capitol Hill Capt. Granville Conway, war shipping chief, said that Harry Bridges had agreed to accept a wage increase of 22 cents an hour for his CIO longshoremen.

In view of this, Conway told a House Labor subcommittee investigating the scheduled strike of Maritime unions at midnight, "It seems reasonable to me that it will be settled" this afternoon.

Bridges' objections to the 22-cent figure has been one of the biggest—and perhaps the last—stumbling blocks separating unions and operators and the Government from an agreement.

Bridges had given ground bitterly, and even as he brightened the prospects of averting the strike now, he flung a threat of another Maritime crisis in little more than three months.

He hinted he would take the 22-cent figure only until September 30.

Major Bowes Dies; Radio Impressario

Rumson, N. J., June 14 (AP)—Death halted today the spin of the "wheel of fortune" that brought fame and wealth to Major Edward Bowes.

The bespectacled, dry-voiced radio impressario, whose "All right, all right," became a household phrase, died last night at his estate here on the eve of his 72nd birthday.

Francis Cardinal Spellman administered the last rites of the Catholic church. There was no announcement of the immediate cause of death.

Library To Open Fairfield Branch

The Fairfield branch of the Adams county library will open Monday at the Fairfield school, Mrs. Ira Henderson announced today.

The branch will inaugurate its service Monday when it will be open from 4 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Mrs. Henderson and Miss Hazel Carson will be in charge of the library, which will be open at the same hours each succeeding week on Mondays.

POSTPONE MEETING

The Adams County Fish and Game Association Auxiliary meeting scheduled to be held tonight at the Legion home has been postponed indefinitely to allow members to attend the Flag Day exercises, officials announced today.

Charles Heller Gets Discharge From Navy

Radarman Charles Heller, son of George Heller, Biglerville R. 2, has been discharged from the U. S. Navy at Bainbridge, Md., after nearly two years of service in the armed forces.

Called to service before he completed his studies at Biglerville, Heller saw service on both the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, with most of his service however occurring in the Pacific area. At one time he was a member of a crew which served 85 days at sea without seeing land, "except when we fired on it," he told friends today.

During his post-war duty at Japan he was able to visit Nagasaki and Hiroshima and view the results of the atom bomb explosions there.

MISSION GROUP WILL CONVE HERE SATURDAY

The twentieth congress of the Group B, Women's Missionary societies of the West Pennsylvania conference, Central Pennsylvania synod, will be held Saturday afternoon, starting at 1 o'clock, at St. James Lutheran church, York street.

The societies are from churches in Adams, York, Franklin and Cumberland counties. Mrs. Walter G. Eisenhart, York, is president. Secretary for the Adams district is Miss Mildred Coshun, of Gettysburg.

Miss Marie Lentz, Chambersburg, will conduct the devotions starting the session at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon on the theme "Peace Within Ourselves." Registration of delegates will begin at 1 o'clock.

To Visit Seminary

Miss Sara Mehning, of the St. James Lutheran church society, will present greetings to the delegates and Miss Mary Houck, Hanover, will present guests. The Bible study period will be conducted by Miss Jennie Strevig, York, formerly professor of Bible at Wilson college.

Following a business session and a trip to the Church of the Abiding Presence on the seminary campus, Miss Myrtle Wilkie, a missionary to Argentina, will deliver an address. The afternoon session will close with devotions on the theme "Peace Within Our Church" conducted by Miss Lentz.

Mrs. Robert Koons, York, a member of the executive committee, will preside at the congress dinner at the St. James social hall at 5:30 o'clock.

Saturday evening's session will open with devotions on the theme "Peace Within Our World" conducted by Mrs. Luther Slifer, Gettysburg. Special music will be presented by the Junior High School choir and Miss Nona Diehl, executive secretary of the United Lutheran Church of America, Philadelphia, will speak. Officers will be installed by Mrs. C. L. Yost, Biglerville, president of the Women's Missionary society. West Pennsylvania conference, benediction by the Rev. Dr. Ralph R. Gresh will conclude the session.

Troop 78 To Gather Paper On Saturday

The regular scrap paper collection will be held by the Boy Scouts Saturday afternoon starting at 1 o'clock provided it does not rain. Dr. Frederick Tilberg announced today.

Scouts from Troop 78 will conduct the drive. The scouts will meet at the fire engine house at 1 o'clock when trucks will be available for them. The scouts and trucks will then visit every street in town, picking up bundles of paper placed for them on the sidewalks by residents of the town. In case of rain Saturday afternoon the collection will be held at a later date.

KNOUSE PLANT IS FEATURED ON RADIO SATURDAY

The Knouse corporation plant at Peach Glen will be the subject of a broadcast on the Consumer Time program sponsored by the U. S. Department of Agriculture Saturday afternoon at 12:15 o'clock, Daylight Saving Time, over the National Broadcasting company system, the Production and Marketing Administration of the USDA announced today.

Officials at the Knouse plant said today that members of the plant staff will listen to the program, in which professional actors will take the parts of M. E. Knouse, president of the firm, and employees of the company.

Leonard R. Trainer, assistant director of the Food Distribution Programs branch, said in a letter to R. E. Arnold, vice president of the Knouse corporation, that the program will be entitled "Eating On The Job" and will be one in the series of Consumer Time programs which have been presented by the USDA for the past 13 years.

Feature Trio of Workers

Based on the theme that "good meals on the job are just as important when making washing machines, automobiles or appliances as they were during war time," the program will outline the development of the new cafeteria at the Knouse company's Peach Glen plant.

Principal characters in the 15-minute play will be listed as "Sarah," "Maud" and "Em," who were suggested by the "three musketeers" of the plant, Mrs. Cora Slosser, 72, Gardners R. 2; Miss Lillie Peters, 78, Bendersville, and Mrs. Guile Showers, 76, of Biglerville, all of whom started with the Knouse corporation when it was formed in 1925 and have worked there ever since.

Ivan H. Blackman, Jr., industrial engineer of the USDA, who assisted the Knouse corporation in planning the cafeteria, and M. E. Knouse will be heard in a conversation concerning the building of the cafeteria, with their parts also taken by professional actors. Robert Young, chef at the plant, and other workers there are mentioned prominently in the script for the program.

R. W. Troxell Gets Marriage License

A marriage license was issued at the court house today to Robert Watkins Troxell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Troxell, Baltimore street, and Miss Grace Louise Hemphill, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hemphill, Newville, Pa.

Other licenses issued were: Regis William Gebhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Gebhart, Hanover R. 4 and Miss Estella Mae Aumen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard F. Aumen, New Oxford R. 1; Carl Russell Bowser, son of Scott Bowser, Hopewell, Pa., and Miss Mildred Eleanor McGraw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd E. Weather Forecast

Fair and cooler tonight. Saturday generally fair and cool.

NOTIFICATION CEREMONIES AT 2:30 SATURDAY

Democratic leaders from all over the state will come to Gettysburg Saturday to attend ceremonies at which Colonel John S. Rice, West Broadway, will be officially notified of his Democratic nomination for the office of Governor.

Headed by U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey, candidate for re-election and David L. Lawrence, Mayor of Pittsburgh and Democratic National Committeeman, a large delegation of party chieftains and adherents are expected here for the event.

The exercises are scheduled to be held on Memorial Field at Gettysburg college. Colonel Rice's alma mater, at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. J. Warren Mickle, state chairman, will preside as master of ceremonies. Mayor Lawrence will deliver the notification address and Colonel Rice will deliver his speech of acceptance.

State Candidates Here

All candidates for state office, expected here for the occasion, will be introduced.

The Central Democratic Club of Harrisburg announced today that it had chartered three buses to bring its delegation here. The Biglerville high school band has been engaged to head the delegation's parade from the court house to Memorial Field. York and Franklin counties are also expected to be represented by large groups.

Chairmen of the 67 county committees have been invited and most are expected to attend.

The Blue and Gray band will play several selections in center square and then march to Memorial Field where it will give a concert prior to the opening of the exercises.

The state executive committee, meeting for the first time in its history outside the capital of the state, will convene at the court house at one o'clock. J. Warren Mickle is expected to be re-elected state chairman for another two year term.

In event of inclement weather the notification exercises will be held in the Eddie Plank memorial gymnasium.

Campaign Manager

Harrisburg, June 14 (AP)—Choice of a special campaign manager to assist the Democratic state chairmen in direction of the coming general election campaign will come sometime after the state committee reorganizes Saturday in Gettysburg.

Col. John S. Rice, Democratic nominee for governor and one of the party leaders, expected to have a large share in the selection of any manager, said today "I have no one individual in mind" for the post.

Explaining "It is a matter which cannot be properly decided until after the state committee reorganizes," Rice said the suggestion, originally made by State Chairman J. Warren Mickle, will be discussed but not settled at a meeting of party leaders here tonight.

Mickle, backed by Rice, U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey and other Democratic chieftains for continuation as state chairman, said he will suggest creation of the new post to permit him, as party chairman, to devote more time to an "intensive organization campaign."

PLAY PROGRAM FOR 4-H OUTING

The Adams county 4-H club outing June 26 at the South Mountain fairgrounds, near Arendtsville, will open at 1:45 p. m. with a recreational program, it was announced today, following a meeting of the outing committee of the senior extension club at the court house Thursday night. The extension club will supervise the affair.

Thomas Murren, Hanover R. 4, will have charge of the recreation program, which will open with a "get acquainted" hour, after which groups will be formed for dart games, horseshoe and quilt pitching and other games. Later in the afternoon there will be softball and volleyball games.

A picnic supper will be held at 5:30 p. m. Each member is requested to bring his or her own lunch. Soft drinks and ice cream will be offered for sale on the grounds.

The Fairfield Home Makers club will direct the vesper services at 8 p. m. and a camp fire lighting ceremony will take place at 9 o'clock, after which the various clubs will participate in a program of stunts, readings and songs. The outing will close with a candlelight service at 9:45 p. m.

ORDINATION SUNDAY

L. C. Plank will be ordained an elder at the service Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Great Conewago Presbyterian church.

SENATE RIPS OPA APART; BACKERS CALL FOR VETO

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
Washington, June 14 (AP)—In a resounding defeat for the administration, the Senate sent a thoroughly mauled OPA bill reeling back to the House today with the price agency granted a year's anti-inflation lease on life—and little more.

OPA backers immediately raised a cry for President Truman to veto the emasculated measure. They predicted skyrocketing prices. And renewed reports circulated that both Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles and OPA Chief Paul Porter were ready to quit rather than try to administer it.

However, the situation has yet to reach that explosive showdown stage, for the final version of the legislation that goes to the White House is still to be decided. House and Senate first must adjust wide differences on their separate measures for extending OPA beyond June 30.

Dark Outlook
The outlook for OPA's continuation "as is" was rated darker than ever.

It was a 53 to 11 Senate vote that approved another year of price controls last night, but the same vote ripped away many of OPA's wartime powers and ordered ceilings wiped out July 1 on many major cost-of-living items.

Meat, butter, milk, all other dairy products, eggs, chickens, leaf tobacco, cigarettes and other tobacco products, gasoline and other petroleum items—all were stripped from further price control on July 1 under the bill.

Warm About Inflation
The elimination of these particular ceilings was not included in the House bill. Thus they might be restored when a Senate-House committee adjusts differences between the two chambers and puts the bill in shape to go to President Truman.

Stabilizer Bowles and OPA Administrator Porter both have declared that either Senate or House bill would wreck price controls completely and touch off soaring inflation.

Neither would comment immediately on the final Senate vote, but Bowles last week promised to urge Mr. Truman "with all the vigor at my command to veto that (Senate) bill in clear and ringing terms."

Forecasting "disastrous" consequences if it becomes law, he asserted in that speech "no honest man would attempt to administer it"—a comment implying that he would step out.

After last night's defeat in the Senate, the hopes of administration lieutenants to recoup the situation were pinned on the chances—evidently none too robust at the moment—that the Senate-House conference group might agree to important revisions.

Union Leaders Ask Veto
The 11 voting against passage after three days of debate included a handful of "New Deal" Democrats wanting stronger legislation. They were Senators Downey (D-Calif.), Kilgore (D-W. Va.), Mead (D-N. Y.), Myers (D-Pa.), and Wagner (D-N. Y.). Others casting negative votes were Senators Ball (R-Minn.), Bushelle (R-S. D.), Moore (R-Okla.), O'Daniel (D-Tex.), Thomas (D-Okla.), and Wherry (R-Neb.).

Union leaders were among those calling for a veto and some pro-labor senators said they voted for the bill only in anticipation that the conference committee might improve on it.

The House bill would allow OPA only nine months more of operations after June 30 compared with the Senate's vote for a year's extension.

Both measures called for reduced food subsidies. The House would end them by January 1 while the Senate would let them continue until May 1.

Gen. Devers To Speak At Smyser Reunion

General Jacob L. Devers and the Very Rev. William H. Nes, of New Orleans, will be among the speakers and entertainers at the bi-centennial reunion of the Smyser family to be held Saturday, June 22, at the York Fair grounds.

General Devers, commander of American ground forces, will speak on "York County's Participation in the American Wars." Participation in the Revolutionary war also includes Adams countians who were then part of York county. A number of the descendants of Mathias Smyser, who settled near York in 1745, now reside in Adams county. The program is open to the public as well as the Smyser clan.

AIRLIGHT ALIBI

Virginia, Minn., (AP)—When Harold Lakoskey's friends laughed when he tried to tell about the big one that got away, he went on another fishing trip to Hoodoo Lake.

And he came back with a better story. He had caught the one that had fooled him the first time, a 20-pound Northern Pike.

To prove it, he exhibited the fish from whose jaw his original hook, leader and sinker still dangled.

Negotiations Lag At Jones & Laughlin

Pittsburgh, June 14 (AP)—Negotiations were at a standstill today in a railway strike which closed the Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation's Pittsburgh works four days ago, making 10,000 workers idle.

Unable to affect a quick settlement of the dispute, Ross J. Foran of National Railway Mediation board returned to Washington last night. He had held several conferences with officials of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen (Ind.) and the Monongahela Connecting Railroad, A. J. & L. subsidiary.

The work stoppage started with the walkout of 250 B.R.T. members who demanded contract benefits gained by the CIO-United Steelworkers rather than those awarded railroad workers by President Truman.

Plenty Of Help With Lost Bills

Libertyville, Ill., June 14 (AP)—Police Chief Joseph Saam had all the help necessary yesterday as he supervised the recovery of nearly all of the $44,000 in new bills scattered along the station of the Milwaukee railroad after a train sliced a mail sack containing the currency.

"We never had a bit of trouble," all the people there were honest," Saam said in reporting that all except $275 of the $44,000 had been turned in by 40 volunteer searchers. The bag broke when it was thrown from a train, struck a post and fell under the wheels of a coach. Saam said he believed some of the money was destroyed by the train wheels or ground into the dirt.

Ireland as a whole was united with Great Britain in 1801.

Weddings

Harbaugh—Tresler

The Church of God of Smithsburg, Md., was the setting for the wedding of Miss Marie Tresler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Tresler, Fairfield, and Earl W. Harbaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harbaugh, Waynesboro R. 4, on Saturday, June 8, at 3 o'clock.

Performing the single ring ceremony was the Rev. George A. Harne amid a setting of roses and peonies. A white eyelet dress was worn by the bride. She complemented her ensemble with a pink rosebud and white sweetpea corsage.

Only the immediate families attended.

After the ceremony, a reception was held on the lawn at the bride's home, when a three-tiered cake was served. It was decorated with a miniature bride and bridegroom, given to the bride's mother for the occasion by Mrs. Shirley Thomas of Roseland, N. J. Mrs. Thomas had used the figures on her wedding cake.

The couple will reside at the bride's home for awhile, until they move into their newly-remodeled apartment at Fairfield R. 1.

Miss Helen Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Adams, Gettysburg, and Stanley Gochenauer, Biglerville, were united in marriage at Westminster on June 8.

U. S. READY TO TRAIN MILLION IN CHINESE ARMY

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, June 14 (AP)—The United States is ready to help train a Chinese army of possibly 1,000,000 men, provided Congress gives its okay.

The training would include both central government and communist troops, in a ratio of five to one.

The exact number of men still is uncertain, but Gen. George M. Marshall, special ambassador to China, has approved a program developed by the state, war and navy departments calling for an "effective small army" of 60 divisions.

Three-fold Objective
That descriptive came from officials who said the objective is three-fold:

1. To enable China to maintain her internal security.
2. To help preserve peace in Asia and.
3. To cooperate in whatever way is necessary with United Nations peace forces yet to be organized.

Secretary of State Byrnes sent Acting Senate President McKellar (D-Tenn.) a request for the necessary legislation before he left yesterday for the Big Four foreign ministers' meeting in Paris. The proposal was referred to the foreign relations committee for action.

"I firmly believe," Byrnes wrote McKellar, "that the national interest, including this country's interest in the establishment and preservation of peace and security in Asia, requires that the United States give aid to the republic of China by assisting that country to organize and maintain modern military forces of moderate size which will permit China to make a substantial contribution to peace in that part of the world."

Charge Youths On Train Derailment

Meadville, Pa., June 14 (AP)—Charges ranging from dereliction of a freight train to theft of money from rural mail boxes were filed against seven youths, 11 to 13 years old, who were bound over to juvenile court yesterday by Alderman Dominick Lemme.

The counts were brought by Crawford County Detective L. D. Strauss who said two of the boys had piled rocks on Erie railroad tracks June 9, causing a train wreck with damage amounting to $850.

Three boys were charged with looting a rural mail box and the others with wilful destruction of property.

Abbottstown

Abbottstown.—Mrs. Wilbur Haines is suffering from bruises and brush burns received in a fall at her home on Saturday night.

The Willing Workers' class of St. John's Lutheran Sunday School held its monthly meeting at the home of the teacher, Mrs. John Lillich, on Monday night. On Tuesday night members of the Luther League held a social in the parish house. Refreshments were served by a committee.

Mrs. Robert Little was recently host to a number of the town's young matrons for a brush demonstration. Refreshments were served. Mrs. Elmer Butt is reported ill.

Frank Elsenhart, the town's oldest resident, is ill with pneumonia.

Somerset, Pa., June 14 (AP)—Grant Harmon, about 25, of Berlin, R. D. 5, drowned last night when a fishing boat capsized at McDonaldson's dam, near here. Three companions reached shore safely.

UNIONIZATION OF MINE FOREMEN FLARES ANEW

Washington, June 14 (AP)—The fight over unionization of mine foremen, a longtime issue in the soft coal industry, flared anew today.

This time, 123 coal producing companies have gone into court in an effort to prevent the government and John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers from signing any contract giving UMW the right to enroll mine supervisory workers.

The government had been operating the soft coal pits since they were seized during the recent 59-day strike. An agreement between the government and Lewis, ending the shutdown, provided for unionization of foremen in keeping with rulings of the National Labor Relations board.

25,000 May Be Affected

Immediately at stake in the court action is the unionization of 136 supervisory workers employed at four mines operated by the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation in western Pennsylvania. Eventually, however, a decision may affect approximately 25,000 clerical workers, mine and fire bosses and similar workers who have been traditionally exempt from union membership.

Foremen struck at many mines last October in a bid for recognition of the UMW's United Clerical, Technical and Supervisory Employees union. Saying he acted "in the interest," Lewis called it off after it had paralyzed a large part of the industry.

The NLRB has certified the UMW foremen's union as bargaining agent for supervisors at the four J. and L. mines. The coal mines administration, as government operator, is dickering with the UMW on a contract.

Two separate suits were filed in Federal District court yesterday to restrain the government from signing contracts covering the foremen. J. and L. entered one and a second was filed by 122 other companies.

PAIR FINED FOR BEATING GIRL, 19

Bedford, Pa., June 14 (AP)—A veterinarian and his wife were fined $200 and costs each yesterday by Justice of the Peace Cyril Bingham after their conviction on charges of cruelty to a minor, a 19-year-old domestic in their home.

The girl, Beatrice Betty Refner, of Williamsburg, Blair county, testified that her employers, Dr. and Mrs. David Lee of near Bedford, beat her and forced her to work without food.

The charges were brought by the Humane Society of Western Pennsylvania, whose officials interviewed Betty after she was taken to Mercy hospital in Altoona June 4 in a state of malnutrition and with welts and lacerations on the back of her legs. Physicians testified Betty weighed 87 upon her admission to the hospital. Yesterday she weighed 95 pounds. She testified that when she went to work for the Lees in 1943 she weighed 130.

Until last January, Miss Refner told the justice, "You couldn't have worked for a nicer couple," but after that, they began to be "cruel to me." She said she was forced to arise at 6 a. m. and work until 1 a. m., next morning and that she was refused food until all her work was done. The work, she said, included household tasks, taking care of the barn, milking cows, working in the fields and other farm labor.

Dr. Lee and his wife testified the Refner girl was a "problem" child, that she had stolen money and clothing from the family, and that she had been locked in her room to prevent further thefts.

Commission Key Men In New Nat'l Guard

Harrisburg, June 14 (AP)—Anticipating federal recognition within 90 days, the new Pennsylvania National Guard today commissioned more than 160 key officers in the veteran 28th Infantry Division and non-divisional air and ground units.

The commissions, effective Monday, open the way for the recruiting of 26,287 officers and men in more than 60 communities.

First units to be filled through voluntary enlistments will be the Keystone Division itself, the 11th Infantry Regimental Combat team, the 51st Anti-Aircraft Artillery Brigade, elements of the 53rd Air Wing, the guard's state headquarters and headquarters detachment, and two army ground force bands.

TO GIVE REPORTS

Dr. Chester Gitt, James S. Cairns and Walter Africa, delegates from the local Rotary club to the Rotary International convention at Atlantic City, will report on that convention at the regular session of the local club Monday evening at 6 o'clock in the YWCA.

York, Pa., June 14 (AP)—A resident of nearby New Freedom, Pa.—Richard D. Whiteford, 24—is the first war veteran in Eastern Pennsylvania to get a loan from the Farm Security Administration to buy a farm. F.S.A. Administrator Dillard B. Laszser came here from Washington yesterday to present the Pacific war veteran with an $8,100 check to purchase 140 acres.

ORGANIZE GIRL SCOUT TROOP IN ARENDTSVILLE

A Girl Scout organization meeting was held at Trinity Lutheran church, Arendtsville, Wednesday evening with 13 girls present. Meeting with the girls were members of the troop committee, Mrs. Raymond M. Hale, Mrs. John Frederick and Mrs. Donald Bosserman.

The evening's program consisted of the singing of two patriotic songs; talk by Mrs. Frederick, a former Girl Scout, on "Interesting Things About Girl Scouts"; reading of laws and explanations by Mrs. Bosserman and a talk on "How to Become a Girl Scout," by Mrs. Hale. The 10 Scout laws were read by the girls in unison.

It was announced that Miss Myrna Sheely will act as scout leader for the summer.

At present the organization includes only intermediate girls from 10 to 14 years of age. Later it is planned to organize a Brownie Troop for girls of seven to 10 years of age. If sufficient interest is manifested a senior troop for girls of 14 to 18 years will be organized.

The troop will meet each Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the church. At the next meeting officers will be elected.

Enrolled at Wednesday's meeting were Patsy Bolen, Ann Luckenbaugh, Betty Freed, Jane Flickinger, Shirley Flickinger, Elsie Hickes, June Hickes, Betty Bolen, Jane Longanecker, Dorothy Longanecker, Joyce Heckenluber, Ann Frederick and Dolores Gochenour.

The Biglerville high school band will play for the notification service of Col. John S. Rice as Democratic candidate for governor on Memorial field, Gettysburg college, Saturday afternoon. All band members are urged to meet at the community hall in Biglerville promptly at 1 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smelser and son, Junior, Cicero, Ill., have concluded a visit with their aunt, Mrs. Mary Smelser, Arendtsville, and other relatives in the community. En route home they will visit in Washington, D. C., New York city, Atlantic City and Reading.

Bruce Burtner, president of the Upper County Lions club, and Francis Coulson, secretary, attended the state Lions convention in Pittsburgh the early part of the week.

Mrs. Raymond M. Hale, Jr., entertained a few friends at bridge Thursday evening at her home in Arendtsville. Favors for scores held were received by Mrs. Herbert E. Bryan and Mrs. Paul Burgoon.

Mrs. John C. Beldier has returned to Quakertown after a visit in the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. Willis Beldier, Biglerville.

The Willing Workers class of Bethlehem Lutheran Sunday school, Bendersville, will meet this evening in the church basement with husbands and friends of members as guests.

Mrs. William Stauffer returned to her home at Palm today after a visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Allen S. Stauffer, of Biglerville.

Nathan Suplee, a returned veteran who is enrolled as a student at the Millersville State Teachers' college, is spending the week-end with his wife and son at the home of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic E. Griest, Jr., of Bendersville.

Herbert and Clyde Funt, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Funt, of Guernsey, had their tonsils removed in Hanover Thursday.

A total of 115 children were enrolled at the Biglerville Community Bible school on Thursday. The school will continue in session throughout next week.

Philadelphia Zoo May Have To Close

Philadelphia, June 14 (AP)—The Philadelphia zoo, one of the largest in the world, may be forced to close.

Dr. William B. Cadwalader, president of the Zoological Society of Philadelphia, informed city council yesterday that $2,000,000 is needed immediately to replace the zoo's 70-year-old buildings.

Buildings which house lions, antelopes, monkeys, reptiles and other animals and birds are no longer in good condition, Cadwalader wrote in a letter to Council President Frederic D. Garman.

Girl Scouts May Go To Pine Grove

Pine Grove Girl Scout summer camp, conducted by the Harrisburg Girl Scout council, is accepting registrations from Girl Scouts outside the Harrisburg Council area. The camp is located at Pine Grove Furnace, Cumberland county. The board fee is $14.50 per week. Interested persons may get in touch with the Girl Scout office, Pine and River streets, Harrisburg. Telephone Harrisburg 4-3197, for an application card.

Dates open to Girl Scouts not under the Harrisburg Council area are: June 23-July 6; July 21-July 27 (Inter-racial).

U. S. Proposes

sponsibilities of an affirmative character intended to put the authority in the forefront of atomic knowledge and thus to enable it to comprehend, and therefore to detect, misuse of atomic energy. To be effective, the authority must itself be the world's leader in the field of atomic knowledge and development and thus supplement its legal authority with the great power inherent in possession of leadership in the knowledge.

Enforceable Sanctions

The gray statesman, who said he had taken up this task "in the afternoon of my life," told the commission that the "peoples we serve would not believe—and without faith nothing counts—that a treaty, merely outlawing possession or use of the atomic bomb constitutes effective fulfillment of the instructions to this commission. Previous failures have been recorded in trying the method of simple renunciation, unsupported by effective guarantees of security and armament limitation. No one would have faith in that approach alone."

"Now, if ever, is the time to act for the common good. Public opinion supports a world movement toward security. If I read the signs aright, the peoples want a program not composed merely of pious thoughts but of enforceable sanctions—an international law with teeth in it."

He said that the peoples of the democracies gathered in the council chamber "hate war . . . they are not afraid of an internationalism that protects; they are unwilling to be fobbed off by mouthings about narrow sovereignty, which is today's phrase for yesterday's isolation."

Penalty Provisions

As for violations of the proposed control framework, Baruch said penalties of as serious a nature as the nations may wish and as immediate and certain in their execution as possible should be fixed for:

"1. Illegal possession or use of an atomic bomb;

"2. Illegal possession, or separation, of atomic material suitable for use in an atomic bomb;

"3. Seizure of any plant or other property belonging to or licensed by the authority;

"4. Willful interference with the activities of the authority;

"5. Creation or operation of dangerous projects in a manner contrary to or in the absence of, a license granted by the international control body."

PREMIER CALLS FOR SUPPORT OF NEW REPUBLIC

By JOHN P. MCKNIGHT

Rome, June 14 (AP)—Premier Alcide De Gasperi appealed to Italians today to support the new republic, regardless of how they voted in last week's plebiscite.

The Premier addressed the nation by radio in an atmosphere of tension created by an acrimonious exchange between his government and King Umberto II, who reached Lisbon today for his exile.

A proclamation issued last night in Umberto's name charged that the cabinet had usurped the king's powers in a "revolutionary gesture" and added that he had left Italian soil only to avoid civil war. A royal aide said Umberto would consider himself king pending a formal court ruling on the plebiscite.

The cabinet, in answer to the proclamation, said it was a "painful document based on falsehoods" and hinted that it might not have been written by the king at all.

Charge Illegal Action

Umberto, who left Italy after ruling for a little more than a month, spent last night at Barcelona, where his four-engine plane arrived shortly after dusk. He was scheduled to resume his flight to Lisbon today, to join his queen and their four children.

The royal proclamation asserted that the cabinet had acted illegally in naming Premier Alcide De Gasperi as provisional chief of state while Umberto was still on the throne.

"I raise my protest against the violence which has been committed—a protest made in the name of the crown and of all the people, both home and abroad," the proclamation said.

It added that Umberto would release members of the armed forces and others from their oaths of loyalty to the crown, but not of their loyalty to the nation.

Perfect Attendance At School A Habit

Oseola Mills, Pa., June 14 (AP)—Perfect attendance at school is a family custom for the children of Mr. and Mrs. Metro Kovalchik.

Joseph, 14, John, 13, Frank, 12, and Charles, 10, chafed up their fourth consecutive year of perfect attendance in the school term just ended, while Robert, 6, started his school career without missing a day or getting a tardy mark.

PENNA, SNEAD LEAD FIELD IN NATIONAL OPEN

By FRITZ HOWELL
Cleveland, June 14 (AP)—Snuggled in a nine-way deadlock for fifth place, two strokes off the sizzling pace as the second 18-hole round started today, Byron Nelson of Toledo still was the people's choice—and his own—to win this 46th national open golf championship.

The transplanted Texan fired a 36-35-71, one under par for the tough Canterbury Golf club terrain, and then declared:

"I was misjudging my distance on second shots all day. But that's the last mistake I'll be making in this tournament."

Any poor judgement on second shots wasn't apparent as the 1939 open king and present ruler of the P.G.A. zinged a No. 4 wood to within three feet of the cup on the 483-yard 13th hole and then holed the putt for an eagle.

Snead Second
Out front as the all-star cast started today's play were Toney Penna of Cincinnati, O., who finished in a third-place tie in the 1938 championship at Denver, and Slammin' Sammy Snead of Hot Springs, Va., who has made several valiant but futile bids to annex goldfom's greatest prize.

The two leaders clipped three strokes off Canterbury's par 72, Penna with 35-34 and Snead with 34-35. It marked the third time in the last four opens that Snead paced the pack at the end of the first round.

Veteran Mike Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y., one of seven golfing brothers, and Bob Hamilton of Chicago, former P.G.A. champion, pulled into second place with sub-par 70's with rounds of 36-34.

Games carded for Sunday in the Penn-Maryland league include Emmitsburg at Taneytown, Thurmont at Middleburg, McSherrystown at Harney, Littlestown at Hanover, and Wakefield at Blue Ridge Summit.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, June 14, (AP)—Anti-climax department . . . two days after he stages the Louis-Conn fight (if it doesn't rain) Mike Jacobs will present a boxing contest between Tony Pellone and Billy Graham . . . The effect of that bout will be to frustrate tub-thumper Harry Markson's desire to spend an entire week in bed once the L-C thing is over . . . and to publicize tonight's Tony Janiro-Chuck Taylor fracas, Markson merely sent out a sheet on which was scrawled "Remember us. We're boxing at the Garden on Friday. We promise you a heluva fight," over the signatures of the two scrappers . . . The Los Angeles Rams plan to set aside 7,000 seats at the Coliseum for each of their football games next fall to be sold only to kids at 65 cents apiece.

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE
Billy Conn earned his first money in the ring by giving Mickey Walker a black eye. The story is that when Walker went to Pittsburgh in 1934 to fight Toot Littman, a kid named Conn sparred with him in the gym and hung a shiner on Mickey. Walker was so tickled he gave Billy ten bucks . . . Auburn's Jimmy Jordan, due to pitch for the midwest in today's All-Star college game at Boston, can and will take his choice among several pro offers. He whiffed 38 batsmen in his last three college starts . . . Some 70 out-of-town experts already are on hand to cover the Louis-Conn doings with more arriving daily . . . Gene Sarazan wasn't too optimistic about his chances in the Open as he made a train reservation to return to New York tonight . . . Hank Iba recently turned down a nifty offer to leave Oklahoma A. and M., and become athletic director and basketball coach at Nebraska. Apparently the Corn-Huskers only offered money—no seven-footers.

KID STUFF
Folks at Painted Post, N. Y., are predicting a great future for Bill McCarty, a 145-pound high school flinger who struck out 120 men, walking only 15 and gave up only nine hits in 59 innings this spring. He hurled two no-hitters, one of which sent his team into the semi-finals of the state tournament this week. The Dodgers have the inside track, although a lot of colleges are interested, since Billy also is a good guard.

O'Neill Claims Sox Not 'Out Of Reach'
Cooperstown, N. Y., June 14 (AP)—Baseball's 107th birthday party is over and the Detroit Tigers can go back to the serious business of chasing the runaway Boston Red Sox. Steve O'Neill, portly skipper of the world champion Bengals who absorbed a 9-5 pasting by the New York Giants in an exhibition game here yesterday, doesn't think the Sox are out of reach.

"They haven't run into any losing streak yet," philosophized the Tigers' keeper as he waited for Governor Thomas E. Dewey and Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler to complete a tete-a-tete before the Doubleday field tilt.

"Not that I don't think they are hot," he continued. "But I'm not convinced they can stay hot. It's only mid-June and a long way until October. Let them lose three or four in a row and they'll be dropping back toward the rest of us."

"I think we still have a chance and so do the Yankees and Washington. The others seem about out of it."

Eastern League

(By The Associated Press)
The champion Utica Blue Sox, sporting a six-game winning streak, was in the thick of the 1946 eastern league pennant race today.

With Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler and other dignitaries looking on, the Blue Sox raised their 1945 pennant last night and climaxed the ceremonies by humbling the Scranton Miners, 4 to 3.

The Miners retained their six-game league lead when the basement dwelling Williamsport Grays won a free-hitting contest from the Hartford Chiefs, 13 to 11. The Wilkes-Barre Barons gained a second place tie with the Chiefs by defeating the Binghamton Triplets, 8 to 3. Albany's Senators turned back the Elmira Pioneers, 4 to 2.

BIG LEAGUES SET RECORDS

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
The pre-season prediction that baseball was in for its biggest year financially was borne out today with the disclosure that with only one third of the season gone, exactly 6,298,060 fans—more than twice last year's attendance at this corresponding date—have paid their way into the 16 major league ball parks.

Not only is a new attendance mark for the year a virtual certainty, but if the fans continue to flock to the games at the same rate, last year's record breaking attendance of 10,951,502 may even be doubled.

As the majors took a one-day "vacation" while the intersectional rivals prepared to clash for the fourth time, the Yankees' amazing home total of 1,113,849 for 34 home games was much the best. Never before has any team hit the million mark at this early date. In all of their 77 home tilts last year, the Yanks attracted only 881,845 fans.

The American league leading Boston Red Sox, with Teddy Williams and Dave (Boo) Ferris as their main attractions, rank second to the Yankees at the gate with 621,690 in 34 games.

Atlantic City—Bobby Jones, 171, Atlantic City, T.K.O. Nick Manfred, 168, Baltimore, 4.

Inter State League

(By The Associated Press)
There was no change in the interstate league standings today as Wilmington and Trenton remained deadlocked for the lead with Sunbury and Hagerstown not too far behind.

The league leaders were both trounced last night—Trenton losing, 9-3, to Hagerstown while last-place York pummeled Wilmington pitchers for a 13-3 triumph. Harrisburg split with Lancaster, the Senators winning the opener, 3-2, and Lancaster copping the nightcap, 3-1. In another doubleheader, Sunbury edged Allentown, 2-1, but lost the second game to the Cardinals, 12-0.

Tonight's schedule: Trenton at Hagerstown; Allentown at Sunbury; Wilmington at York; Lancaster at Harrisburg.

Greenwood Lake, N. J., June 13 (AP)—Joe Louis could just as well be a guy fishing in a sampan in Siam, for all the attention Billy Conn gives him and what he does or how he looks. You practically have to drag any conversation about the Brown Bomber out of the Pittsburgh Pretty Boy, he's that unconcerned about the fellow generally regarded as packing the largest ether cans

Philadelphia, June 14 (AP)—Shorty McAndrews of Allentown, Pa., sped 25 laps around the quarter-mile Yellow Jacket speedway last night in 5:53.14 to set a new track record in winning the Stars and Stripes Handicap. A crowd of 8,100 saw him clip 42/100 of a second off the mark set earlier this year by Larry Bloomer of Norristown, Pa., who was third in the race only ten feet behind Rex Records of Stanford, Conn.

Pompton Lakes, N. J., June 14 (AP)—Al Hossman, one of four big, clever Negro fighters who have been helping Joe Louis sharpen his batting eye here for the past 44 days is convinced that the champion is holding out a few secret weapons to use on Billy Conn next Wednesday night.

"I'm sure Joe's using a little camouflage," was the way the tall Los Angeles stylist put it. "Just every now and then he shows me enough in there for me to know he isn't doing his best all the time. He's much faster than when we started training."

Pilot Spots Fire In Barn; Calls Company

Warren, Pa., June 14 (AP)—A keen-eyed airplane pilot was credited with averting a serious barn fire in the Spring Valley district near here.

The roof of the barn had been ripped off during a recent storm and as the pilot passed over the area yesterday, he saw smoke.

He circled the barn several times to attract attention, then flew on to Pittsburgh, and telephoned an alarm to the Warren fire department.

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and
The Gettysburg Times

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Graduated: Richard C. Eberhart, Springs avenue, and Edward Farrell, Jr., Lincoln avenue, were graduated recently from the high school department of Mt. St. Mary's college, Emmitsburg.

Upper End Couple Married Saturday: Miss Mildred Kathryn Beamer, Bendersville, and Luther Jay Lobaugh, of Gardners, were married at Bendersville Lutheran parsonage Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the Rev. O. D. Coble performing the ceremony.

Announce Wedding Performed A Year Ago: In connection with her graduation as a nurse from the University of Maryland, Baltimore, Saturday, Mrs. Viola Mills Forrest, of Sharpsburg, Maryland, announced her marriage to Frank Forrest, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Forrest, York street.

The couple were married by W. A. Geiselman, clerk of the courts here, September 1, 1930, at the Clerk's office after he issued them a marriage license.

Gettysburg Girl Is Cornell Senior: Mary Jane Snyder, of Gettysburg, is on the provisional list of candidates for the degree of bachelor of arts to be conferred June 15 at Cornell university.

Senator Davis Commencement Speaker: "Economic Indigestion" was the subject of an address by Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, at the ninety-ninth annual commencement exercises of Gettysburg college in the majestic theatre Monday morning. Doctor Henry W. A. Hanson presided and introduced the speaker. One hundred and twenty-eight academic degrees and six honorary degrees were conferred at the exercises.

Dr. H. Milton Valentine, college chaplain, gave the invocation and the benediction. Charles Richard Jacobs, York, gave the salutatory address and Calvin E. Schildknock, Frederick, gave the valedictory.

Thirteen Students Get Diplomas: Thirteen students of St. Francis Xavier parochial school were given diplomas at annual exercises held in the school auditorium Monday night. A short pageant "School Girl Visions" preceded the awarding of prizes and diplomas.

The Rev. Father Mark E. Stock presided at the exercises, conferring the diplomas and the awards after the pageant. The address to the graduates was made by the Rev. Father P. J. Enright, Bonneauville, Mass., June 12.—With its traditional impressive program, Harvard University will celebrate its 295th annual commencement, June 18, in Sever quadrangle.

Donald Paxton McPherson, Jr., son of Judge and Mrs. Donald P. McPherson, Gettysburg, will be among the candidates who will be awarded Bachelor of Laws with honors in recognition of his excellence in professional work.

Noted Musician Appears Here: General Evangeline Booth, commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army, who spoke at an open-air, public meeting in Center Square Sunday morning, brought with her one of the most versatile musicians in the country. He is Baron Richard von Callo, a Russian, who plays between twenty and thirty different instruments. He brought with him organ, chimes, piano accordion, cornet, hand bells and flexatone.

Personal: Dr. John Hoke Mickle, of Baltimore, was a week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hoke, West High street.

Dr. and Mrs. Ira M. Henderson, of Fairfield, sailed from New York on Friday, June 12 on the S. S. Homeric for a thirty day trip to Europe.

Mrs. Harry Shriver and Miss Marion Shriver, Gettysburg, R. D., and Miss Lula Roth, of Mummastown, have returned from State College, where they attended the commencement exercises as the guest of Mrs. Shriver's son, Elmer, who was a member of the graduating class.

Today's Talk

THE GREATEST SOURCE BOOK

I was talking to a friend recently about odd subjects, and referring to many books as source books, when suddenly my friend remarked: "The greatest source book of all is the Bible." That statement needed no confirmation from me. What other book has so influenced the world? What other book has been so many times quoted, or been so great in its inspiration to writers, speakers, and public characters?

Probably no other book had such an influence upon Abraham Lincoln as did the Bible. All through his public utterances are quotations and similarities of expression, that had their source in the Bible.

In the Bible are to be found poetry, history, narrative, philosophy, ethics, drama, and more human nature exposed than in any other book ever printed. Well may it be called "the Book of Books." Well may the Bible be consulted and read daily, for both intellectual refreshment and spiritual gain. No other writing, outside the writing of Shakespeare, approaches it in simplicity of style and expression. The wisdom and hope of the ages are there.

Great as is the Bible, however, as a source book, it is far greater as a guide to noble conduct. The business man can gain therefrom a complete code for the successful operating of his enterprises. Therein may be discovered the ways and means by which men and nations waxed strong, and lost their hold, as well. There you will read of the weaknesses and the strong points of human beings in all walks of life.

The Bible is the greatest textbook to life and living that has ever been put between covers. No wonder that it continues as the world's greatest "first seller." It has influenced more writers and given comfort and hope to more human beings than any other book.

And old as the Bible is, it is ever new! No matter how many times you have read certain parts, those parts never grow old upon one, but surprisingly new and inspiring. Perhaps in the Book of Revelation alone lies the prophecy of our time and day! A copy of this greatest of all source books should be in every home.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Power and Contentment"

WHAT HAPPENS TO OPA WILL AFFECT PUBLIC

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, June 14 (AP)—Watch what happens to OPA in the next two weeks.

What happens to it will affect you, your pocketbook and your cost of living.

Here's the story.

The House and Senate (the Senate last night, the House weeks ago) have voted to continue OPA.

In doing so both Houses would strip OPA of many price controls, leaving it only a ghost of itself.

Prices Will Jump

If the action of Congress becomes law—this is not certain yet—prices are going to start climbing, some almost immediately.

No one seriously denies that throwing off OPA controls will bring higher prices. Higher prices mean inflation.

Congress's thinking—or hope—in paving the way for higher prices was this:

Higher prices will mean better profits for business. With better profits, business will produce the goods the country needs.

Then, and this is still the thinking in the capitol, when plenty of goods reach the market, prices will start coming down.

The Big Questions

The main point is: How high will the prices (inflation) go, how long will they stay up, when will they start coming down, how far down will they come?

And there's this: If prices get out of hand, the government no longer can attempt to hold wages down. Labor will start demanding higher pay if prices go screwy.

And there's this: If wages go up, the cost of production will have to go up. Then, will wages and prices ever come down to where they are now?

But even with OPA still in control, as it is now and has been up to this time, living costs have gone up.

Actually, no one in the government can say exactly how high living costs have risen from—say—February until now.

See Veto Likely

Yet in that period a great many ceilings have been lifted by OPA. It is lifting more every day, or at least loosening up. With the kind of OPA Congress has decided upon, prices will go up, but faster.

A tremendous amount of work has been put into the job done on OPA by Congress: Lengthy hearings and much debate. But, as noted, the Congressional action is not final and it's possible OPA will squeeze through with a whole skin after all.

If the final draft of the bill is like the present House and Senate bills, President Truman probably will veto it and send it back to Congress.

All this will have to happen in the next two weeks for, unless a law is passed to extend it, OPA automatically dies June 30. No one wants to kill off OPA altogether but by the time a veto reached Congress, the date would be pretty close to June 30.

MARINES TAKE POSITIONS NEAR CHINESE PORT

Tsingtao, June 13 (Delayed) (AP)—

United States Marines prepared defense positions today on the outskirts of this Chinese port as Communist troops showed up only 12 miles to the north.

(A dispatch from Nanking quoted a Communist spokesman as announcing that attacks toward Tsingtao, a key supply base in troubled North China, had been ordered halted.)

(A Communist headquarters statement accused the National Government of using the question of sovereignty in Manchuria as a pretext for civil war.)

While the Fourth Marine Regiment dug in, its top commanders conferred on the action to be taken in the event of attack.

Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey, commander of all Marine forces in China, talked the situation over with Adm. Charles M. Cooke, Jr., U. S. Seventh Fleet commander, and Maj. Gen. Louis E. Woods, commander of the First Marine Air Wing.

The decisions reached were not announced, but it was considered significant that the Marines began preparing positions on a series of ridges at the Northern outskirts of Tsingtao, as well as around the airport six miles north of the city. Ten tanks and four tank destroyers patrolled the airfield.

Wheat	$2.05
Corn	$1.50
Rye	1.25
Large White Eggs	43
Large Brown Eggs	37
Medium Eggs	31
Pullet Eggs	31
Duck Eggs	30

Baltimore Fruit-Poultry

Market steady. Receipts moderate. Wholesale selling prices (including commission) in Baltimore:

ROASTERS, FRYERS & BROILERS—Colored, as to size, 34-35.7 cents; FOWL—Colored, 30.4 cents; Leghorns, mostly 23 cents; large sizes, 24-25 cents, few higher.

Baltimore Livestock

CATTLE—Receipts at the close of this week extremely light, so light, in fact, hardly enough of any one class offered to accurately test the market. Trading in general very active with outsiders setting the buying pace by taking the bulk of the available supply.

The available slaughter steer supply fully steady with earlier this week. Mostly odd head with earlier this week. Mostly odd head arrivals 15-16. Heifers fully steady with earlier this week. In this division, a truck lot of strictly choice-fed arrivals 17.50, day's top price, with an odd head 17. Good short-fed heifers 14.50-15.25 and common and medium grades 12-13.50.

Cows fully steady with the week's unevenly higher market. Smooth, young medium grade cows 12-13.50, and outside buyers, in a runaway market, bought fat high-yielding beef cows freely 14-15.50. Common cows, cows carrying fat and flesh but aged and "hippy," 9.50-11.50. Canners and cutters 7.50-9, with most sales starting at 8.

Bulls steady with the week's unevenly higher market. Beef bull receipts very light, only a few low good arrivals around 15. Good weighty good bulls 13-15.50, with high-yielding individuals 14-14.50. Cutter, common and medium grades 10-12.75. In the stock and feeder division, a moderate supply active and steady with earlier this week. A few lots of good and choice light and mediumweight Western stocker and feeder steers 15.50-16.50 and a few medium arrivals 15-15.25.

CALVES—Vendors and weighty slaughter lots in good demand, active and steady with Wednesday. Mixed lots of good and choice 120-220-pound vealers 17, mainly 18. Common and medium grades 10.50-15.50, with a few lots to 16. Culls around 8, with extreme lightweight to 5. Good weighty slaughter calves 14, with common and medium grades 10-13.

HOGS—Swine trading active and steady with Wednesday at ceiling prices. All interests competed for the available supply far below the demand. Good and choice barrows and gilts 15.40 and good sows 14.75.

SHEEP—Spring lambs and slaughter ewes active and steady with Wednesday. Mixed lots of good and choice 70-100-pound spring lambs 18.50-19.50, the latter price the practical top and popular price. Mixed lots of medium and good arrivals 16-17.50. Choice lightweight wooled slaughter ewes, 8.50 down, with comparable shorn ewes 7.50 down.

To sweeten breakfast grapefruit, fill the hole with strained honey, set in refrigerator over night.

E. W. THOMAS IS

mittee on competitive agencies.

In his report as chairman of that committee, presented at the convention this morning Mr. Thomas asserted that:

"If it is now the intent of Congress that these lending agencies which were originally set up to serve a temporary emergency and to complement but not compete with existing private sources of lending should become permanent and should compete with private sources of lending, then such agencies should be required to return their capital to the government or pay a fair rate of interest on such capital; they should also be required to pay Federal income taxes on profits from operations and should be required to pay the same local taxes as those with whom they compete. Statistics from reliable sources show staggering totals of the taxpayers' money invested by the government in agencies competing with private enterprise.

"A great many people today believe that it is not possible for this great country of ours to endure and remain economically strong; half private enterprise and half government owned and operated," he concluded.

Started Career In 1909

In his report he also urged the American Bankers Association to conduct a strong institutional advertising campaign to outline to the general public the "outstanding work done by banks in the past, present and future," and the facilities of banks at the present time to aid in such matters as housing and otherwise assist in the reconstruction.

Thomas started his banking career in 1909 as a clerk in the National Iron bank of Pottstown and about 1914 joined the staff of the Penn National bank at Reading as a bookkeeper. In 1915 he became assistant cashier of the Reading bank, the first it ever had. He held that post until 1919 when he was offered the position of vice president of the First National bank here. He became president of the First National in 1928.

He holds posts on five American Bankers Association committees at present including the sub-committee on agricultural credits, the committee on Federal Legislation of the Savings division of the ABA, the committees on Soil Conservation and Farm Land Prices of the ABA's Agricultural committee, and the committee on urban housing and mortgage financing.

Once Headed Group 5

From 1934 to 1935 he was chairman of Group Five of the Pennsylvania bankers which includes Adams, Cumberland, Dauphin, Franklin, Fulton, Juniata, Lancaster, Lebanon, Mifflin, Perry and York counties.

He was chairman of the Adams County War Finance committee from the start of the recent war and still heads the county's bond drive committee. A Rotarian, Elk and Mason he also was one of the organizers of the local Chamber of Commerce and for some time a director of that organization. A native of Pottstown, he graduated from Pottstown high school and while in Reading took a course in the Wharton School of Accounts and Finance.

He married the former Esther B. Branfield, of Coshocton and Alliance, Ohio. They have two sons and reside at 131 West Lincoln avenue.

How Guffey, Myers Voted On OPA Bills

Washington, June 14 (AP)—Here's how Pennsylvania's two Democrat Senators, Francis J. Myers and Joseph F. Guffey, voted yesterday on OPA legislation:

On an amendment by Senator Thomas (D-Pa.) to end price controls immediately, both Myers and Guffey voted against. The Senate rejected the amendment 51 to 21.

In the vote for a complete substitute for the price control bill offered by Sen. Pepper (D-Fla.), Myers voted for it. Guffey did not vote. The Senate rejected it 52 to 17.

On the vote by which the Senate approved, 53 to 11, a much-amended price control extension bill, both senators voted against the legislation.

Meadville, Pa., June 14 (AP)—Post-humous honors will be paid June 17 to 20 undergraduates of Allegheny college who lost their lives in World War II.

Sentence Four Who Beat Slot Machines

Norristown, Pa., June 14 (AP)—Two men and two women made slot machines "pay off" by using a small drill and a thin wire to manipulate the jackpot spring, testimony in Montgomery county court showed yesterday.

The four, convicted of conspiracy to commit larceny and attempted larceny, were:

Hershel Blackwell, 33, Joplin, Mo., and his wife, Mildred, 25; Walter A. Belling, 26, former army captain, of New Waterford, O., and his wife, Pauline, 30.

Judge George C. Corson sentenced Blackwell to 18 months in jail and fined him $500; sentenced his wife to six months; fined Belling $600 and

ACQUIT DAVIDOWITZ
 Philadelphia, June 14 (AP)—Bernard A. Davidowitz, former state chairman of the now defunct American Labor Party, was acquitted yesterday in quarter sessions court of 12 charges of signing fraudulent names to nominating petitions. Before a jury returned the verdict, the prosecution dropped a charge of making a false affidavit in filing of a petition for the 1945 primary election against Davidowitz.

Flying In The World Spotlight . . . . The American Flag

Americans soberly realize and accept the worldwide responsibilities which are theirs today.

The Star Spangled banner flies now over many lands, and often under dark and lowering skies. It is looked up to with faith by people who have never known justice. It is a flag of hope and healing in disease and famine-ridden countries. It brings the promise of life, education, progress, to millions of war victims.

On Flag Day, June 14th, as we honor the flag here at home, let us resolve to maintain it in the highest honor wherever it flies.

Miners Not Eligible For Jobless Benefits When Foremen Strike, Board Rules

COMPENSATION LAW BARS SUCH PAY IN STRIKES

Harrisburg, June 14 (AP)—Pennsylvania's Unemployment Compensation law bars immediate payment of benefits to any worker idled by an industrial dispute at the plant or mine where he works, regardless of any personal participation, the State Unemployment Compensation Board of Review has ruled.

The ruling made yesterday in connection with the strike of supervisory employees of bituminous coal mines in western Pennsylvania last September specifically disqualified rank-and-file miners from receiving compensation after a one-week waiting period.

Many Affected

After reviewing changes made by the 1945 legislature in the section dealing with disqualification of workers involved in strikes, the board stated:

"Were it not for the change which the amendment of 1945 affected in Section 402 (D) of the Unemployment Compensation law, the board would feel constrained to hold, as it has previously, that the disqualification applies only to those individuals who, by their conduct, have shown that the suspension of work was voluntary on their part."

"We are cognizant of the fact, that, under the construction of the law amended, many claimants will be required to serve disqualification periods where it is perfectly obvious that they have not engaged in the stoppage and have no stake in the dispute."

The board noted this ruling will not only affect the benefit rights of the soft coal miners involved but "the determination of compensation in countless future claims with respect to unemployment resulting from strikes."

BIG 3 RELATIONS MAY BE DECIDED BY PARIS MEET

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

The world has seen many momentous international conferences during the past decade of crises, but the forthcoming show-down in Paris among the Big Four must rank among the most important, for upon its success or failure hinge relations between Russia and the Western Allies.

Again the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, Russia and France will meet to try to break the deadlock over the European peace treaties. The outcome will in major degree lie among the Big Three — Russia on the one hand and on the other America and Britain — for France has been playing the part of balance among the rest.

Secretary of State Byrnes arrived in Paris this morning on President Truman's private plane, "The Sacred Cow," accompanied by Senators Connally and Vandenberg as advisers. And the President himself took the unusual course of going to the airport at Washington yesterday to wish his envoys God-speed—an action which perhaps was calculated to emphasize the gravity of the mission. Secretary Byrnes earlier had said that failure of this conference would be a disaster for mankind.

May Get Results

Senator Connally, who is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, indicated America's position in a statement in which he declared that no veto by one foreign minister must be allowed to "upset the whole peace program." He added that unless the Paris conference achieves "a quick and definite agreement" it should adjourn and call a peace conference of the 21 nations interested in these treaties.

And over in England only the day before British Foreign Secretary Bevin had announced that if negotiations bogged down he would sign separate peace treaties with the defeated European nations. Previously he had characterized the Paris conference as "one last attempt" to gain Russian cooperation for peace.

Has the time arrived when Russia is about satisfied with her expansion and is ready to adopt the role of giver? As I see it, there still are some concessions which Moscow wants to round out her so-called security program. However, there have been recent indications (quite apart from wishful thinking) that the Soviet Union might be approaching collaboration.

If this is correct, we may get results in Paris.

Former OPA Officials Among 24 Sentenced

Pittsburgh, June 14 (AP)—Twenty-four persons, including four former OPA officials, were fined a total of $61,950 in federal court yesterday—a session that climaxed the clean up of Pittsburgh's black market in sugar.

The court imposed jail sentences in most cases but suspended them, placing defendants on probation for five years, on the condition that fines and costs were paid "forthwith." All had pleaded guilty.

The longest suspended sentence, five years, was imposed on Max Slutsky, Pittsburgh salvage dealer accused of writing illegal ration checks of 711,000 pounds of sugar.

PUC CALLS GAS RATES "JUST"

Harrisburg, June 14 (AP)—The Public Utility commission today closed its nine-year-long inquiry into the rates of the Peoples Natural Gas Company of Pittsburgh with the declaration present rates "are just."

These rates, with minor exceptions, were put into effect by the Utility in 1944 with the sanction of the commission after two previous orders affecting the company's charges had been reversed by the state's courts. At the same time, the Utility paid consumers $500,000 in reparations.

Opened by the commission in 1937 as part of a general inquiry into the reasonableness of natural gas rates, the inquiry into the Peoples Gas charges first reached the Superior Court in 1940 when the Utility appealed from a commission order that lawfulness of new rates filed by the company in 1939 had not been sustained.

Losing this point, the commission then ordered a reduction in the new rates — they became effective July 1, 1940, and were higher than those in effect in 1937 — and substantial refunds to consumers. The utility appealed again and the Superior Court reversed this order also.

Peoples then made an offer of settlement which included a rate reduction and reparations of $500,000 and this was accepted by the commission on February 16, 1944, on the grounds "the offer met the requirements" laid down by the Superior Court mandate.

The city of Pittsburgh opposed the settlement, however, seeking lower rates than those in the offer, and appealed.

SUMMARIZES DEMANDS IN MARITIME ROW

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, June 14 (AP)—Here's a quick look at the threatened maritime strike.

It's not easy to understand. Two groups of unions are involved and their demands are not the same. Generally, this is the story.

1. Five unions—Four CIO and one independent—are banded together in the committee for maritime unity (CMU). They threaten to strike Saturday if their demands are not settled.

2. AFL seamen came into the rumpled after the other five. They're not connected with those five at all. They're making their own demands. They're still vague about their strike date.

Take the CMU first. Four of the five CMU unions are unions of seamen. The fifth is a longshoremen's union.

Various Demands

The CMU longshoremen want better pay. The CMU seamen want better straight hourly pay, better overtime pay, and shorter hours. Take the seamen:

They're working 56 hours a week at sea, drawing overtime for any hour over 56. They want their work week reduced from 56 to 44 hours. Overtime—if any—would start after 44 instead of after 56, as now.

The CMU argues that a 44-hour week at sea would make more work for seamen now idle because the ships, due to shorter working hours, would need larger crews.

The ship owners have a couple of things to say about this proposal.

1. A 44-hour week would mean a lot more overtime for the men who worked over 44 hours, since overtime would start there instead of at 56.

2. But if the crewmen insisted on working only 44 hours and no more, the cost of the 44-hour week would make cost of operating the ships so high—in comparison with foreign ships—that American vessels could not compete.

The Companies' Position

The companies say: a 44-hour week, strictly observed, would mean putting so many extra crewmen on a passenger ship that there'd be as many crewmen as passengers.

Right now the companies own only about 20 per cent of the ships. The total number of ships is about

Proposes Adding Gold Star To Flag

Pittsburgh, June 14 (AP)—A. G. Trimble, national vice president of the American Flag Day association, last night proposed addition of a gold star to the American flag as a perpetual memorial to the sacrifices of service men and women.

Trimble, who spoke at a pre-Flag Day ceremony, said the gold star would supplement new stars expected to be added to the flag when Alaska, Hawaii and Porto Rico become states.

3.100. The government owns the other 80 per cent and is paying the companies a fee for operating them.

The government has told the companies to act as the government's agents in bargaining with the unions. In doing so, the companies are really bargaining for themselves. For this reason:

At the present time the government will have to pay for whatever new benefits the seamen get. Later, when the government gets out of the shipping business, the companies will have to carry on the contracts.

In addition to the 44-hour week, the seamen want a flat increase of 22 cents an hour for men making up to $140 a month. They then want a rising scale up to 35 cents an hour for men making over $175.

The seamen, for every hour worked over 56, now get 85 cents an hour, for all grades of seamen. They want this raised to a total of $1.25 to $1.75 an hour in overtime, depending on the grade. So much for the seamen.

The Longshoremen

Now for the CMU longshoremen: The longshoremen, making $1.15 an hour now, want an increase of 35 cents an hour. They're not asking for shorter hours. They're working 6 hours a day with time and a half for any hour worked after 6 hours or any hour worked after 5 p. m.

They have no minimum number of hours a week.

The five CMU unions are: The national maritime union (CIO), seamen on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts; the American communications association (CIO), radio operators shipping mostly out of Atlantic ports; the marine cooks and stewards (CIO), sailing out of Pacific coast ports; the international longshoremen and warehousemen's union (CIO), whose members work on the Pacific coast; and the Pacific coast marine firemen, oilers, water tenders and wipers (Independent).

The two AFL unions, making de-

OAK RIDGE OVENS PIONEER NOW IN ATOM FOR PEACE

By FRANK CAREY
(Associated Press Science Reporter)

Oak Ridge, Tenn., June 14 (AP)—The great, shielded ovens that can make atom ingredients are pioneering today in a new job—producing materials earmarked to serve science, medicine and industry in peacetime.

The army's Manhattan engineer district, creators of the world's deadliest weapon, disclosed that production envisions "nationwide distribution" of radioactive substances made in the same furnaces that produced the heart of the A-bomb.

And the great ovens, now producing limited quantities of these humanitarian by-products of atomic energy, are being geared for the army's objective of "large scale" availability of products which they declared "may well have far-reaching importance in peace-time research in physics, chemistry, metallurgy and the medical sciences."

To Make "Reasonable Change"

Meanwhile, the army announced that hospitals, universities, and similar institutions or groups could make immediate application for the small quantities of materials available.

A "reasonable charge" will be made to "cover the out-of-pocket" costs to the United States the announcement said.

The announcement said that while present production would be increased as rapidly as possible "it will probably be impossible to meet all the demands of the country until additional facilities are built specifically for (radioactive substance) production. This is not contemplated in the immediate future."

Declaring that approximately 100

different radioactive substances—materials that give off invisible rays—would be obtainable "in varying quantities," from the atom bomb project, the war department's statement asserted:

"They will be used in two important ways:

"First as tracer atoms or 'tracers' for following the course of atoms in chemical, biological and technical processes."

"And possibly second, after considerable research, as therapeutic (treatment) agents for treatment of certain special diseases."

Opens New Studies

The army's announcement only hinted at the possibilities of employing radioactive substances as aids to industry, but it's well known that such substances have been used to trace new oil pools, to study the "cracking" of petroleum, and to follow the course of gases through intricate systems.

Radioactive sulphur, another of the atom pile's products, conceivably may be used to trace the course of "sulfonamide" drugs through the human body, the army scientists declared.

And they said radioactive carbon "is expected to give impetus to the study of all organic processes including the mechanism and growth of normal and abnormal tissues and all plant and animal functions."

Carbon is one of the principal elements taking part in the working of the human body.

JIGGER MORAN

by JOHN ROEBURT

Chapter 1

Jigger raised his hat and peered at the taximeter, his brow a knotty tangle of addition and subtraction. The meter read two dollars and forty cents. Jigger threw the flag up, eased up on the accelerator, and loosed toward the One Hundred Sixth Street West Side exit of the park. A red light froze him on Central Park West.

Throwing his own two-dollar-and-forty-cent hard-earned receipts might soften Monk the dispatcher's blitz on low bookings, but what about Irene? This was their regular Wednesday night out. They were slated to do some hoofing when her four o'clock to midnight rotating shift at Childs was done.

Jigger switched on the key, jammed at the starter, threw the cab into gear, and careened a U-turn, heading back downtown in one flowing motion. A cab pulled abreast of him the driver leaning toward him with the weight of conspiracy.

"Listen, Jigger. Little Josey wants to see you at the Metropole at midnight."

"Not if I see that two-bit racketeer first," he replied, nosing toward Broadway. The Imperial stopped in front of Number 235 and Jigger sprinted up the brownstone stoop, key in hand. He threw open the door of his parlor floor studio.

The room was a litter of late-Victorian marble, cherubs, brocades. An open copy of George Moore's Impressions and Opinions made a still life with a crumpled pack of cigarettes on the floor beside the three-quarter bed.

Three documents in narrow black frames were stepped up on the wall opposite a gilt, floor-to-ceiling, ro-coco mirror. They bore individual legends, commemorating J. Howard Moran. One conferred a De Viris degree; another confirmed the award of Ph.D.; the one atop the other two announced a dismissal of charges of criminal extortion by the Grand Jury of the State of Illinois against J. Howard Moran.

Jigger hit the street sleek and natty in a draped herringbone suit, climbed into the Imperial, and pulled up across the street from Childs Spanish Gardens where a tight bundle with a thin red line of lip and false lashes stood tapping a tom-tom on the pavement.

Jigger sang out across ten feet, "Hello, you beautiful doll!"

Irene narrowed the gap. "Jigger, I've been standing here for fifteen minutes."

"Couldn't help it, Irene."

The hack leaped forward toward Madison Avenue. "Where you going, Jigger?"

"Cafe Society. There's a hundred belly laughs in Jack Gifford, the M.C."

Irene said "I want to go to the Metropole tonight."

"What, you, too?" snorted Jigger. "Little Josey wants to see you at midnight. He's been pestering me all day. I swore I'd bring you."

The Cafe Metropole was a gaudy sweatbox as a short man with a lumpy nose in an evening cutaway threaded his way through the packed dancing floor and fell moltenly on a chair at Jigger's table.

"Where do you keep yourself, Jigger?"

Jigger found refuge from Little Josey in a double mouthful of porthouse.

Josey fluttered an eyelid and Irene went to powder her nose. Josey leaned close.

"I got a job for you to do, Jigger."

Jigger said, "I'm not working for you, Josey," and kept on wolfing the French fries.

"I don't mean that. This is strictly the kind of stuff that got you a rep as a troubleshooter."

Jigger said modestly, "You must be mistaken. I'm still behind the wheel of a hack. Let your pistoleros solve it for you, Josey. I give the rackets a wide berth."

"I just want you to run down some facts for me."

Jigger said, "You're crazy as a bedbug if you think you can trust me."

"I'll take that chance. You know I'm not exactly helpless with rats." Josey said it matter-of-factly.

Jigger nodded his first agreement. "I'd say you're quite at home with rats, Josey."

Josey said, "Quit it, will ya, and listen."

"Fire away."

"Remember. This is confidential."

"I'm not promising, Josey. Whatever you spill is at your own risk. With me it's a policy to use whatever I know—whenver I need to."

"I'll take that chance, wise guy. I'd hate to wind up fitting you into a cement sleeping suit." Josey concluded in an is-it-yes-or-no. "Will you come to my office where we can talk?"

Jigger said with a yawn, "Maybe later, Josey. Much later. I'm out for a good time."

Josey stuck a round thumb up in to the air and a waiter came running.

"I'll sign the tab for my friends. Give them anything they want—anything at all."

Josey fought to his feet and skirted along the edge of the dance floor.

Irene sat down.

"What did Josey want, Jigger?"

"I'm not sure. Probably a fall guy."

"Nice of Josey to blow us."

"He has a reason."

Irene said dreamily, "He's an important man."

"Don't be so impressed with Josey."

Irene said, "You're bitter, Jigger, bitter about everybody."

"About Josey I'm realistic. His big take in the numbers racket will end any day now—and suddenly."

"You're just being bitter, Jigger."

"You said that before, honey-girl. You must learn to run more risks with vocabulary."

Jigger patted her and then squeezed. Irene swung her body out of his reach and the chair fell over. Jigger helped her to her feet.

Nobody looked at them. It was the 2 a. m. crowd and everyone was tight, wonderfully in love, and glassy-eyed.

Chapter 2

Jigger walked through the ante-room that led to Little Josey's private office.

Josey munched on a cigar while three men copied numbers off slips of paper into a huge ledger. A fourth was doing a hunt-and-find on an adding machine. Josey's feet were on the desk, his toes jostling mounds of coins and squat piles of greenbacks.

"I want you to run down a killer, Jigger."

Jigger drew a circle in the air. "Bingo. There are four right here, not counting you, Josey. Ask me another."

"Quit it, Jigger. I'm referring to the killing of that doctor in Yorkville last week. You know the case. You read the papers."

"I only read the sports page. You tell me."

"There's not a lot to tell. That's why I need you. A Dr. Herz was killed on East Eighty-fourth Street. Whoever did it went to town. The doc was so badly battered it was no cinch for his missus to identify him."

"What do you want me to do?"

"I want you to convince the cops that I had nothing to do with it."

"Why should they need convincing?"

"The case has them stymied and they're looking for the easiest way out. Laying it at my door would save them a big headache."

"Not so fast, Josey. That's not procedure. Just what is the link between you and the corpse?"

"Like a lot of people, the doc played the numbers."

"So?"

"So, is that a link? The doc played the numbers. See those slips? There are thousands of them. Every slip is a numbers player."

"But not a corpse, Josey. Why should the cops blow hot on a slim lead like that?"

The day before somebody conked him, the doc had placed a numbers bet with our bank."

"How much?"

"Twenty bucks."

Jigger whistled. "Wow! On a one-thousand-to-one shot?"

Josey moistened his lower lip. "The number came out, Jigger. Number 169."

Jigger computed mentally. "On the standard payoff of six hundred to one that makes twelve thousand dollars. Not bad. That ought to advertise your bank like nothing else. The whole town must have doubled and tripled their play after that."

"They didn't. The play fell off to nothing."

"It doesn't add up, Josey. How come?"

"The word got around that we didn't pay off."

Jigger looked as if he believed it too, implicitly. "That's why the cops are blowing hot. It begins to get clear. They figure the twelve grand was twelve thousand reasons why you and your boys should hate the doc."

Josey got up on his feet and said darkly, "We paid off. Twelve grand is chicken feed in my business." His hand swept the desk. "See this pile. There's nearly twice that there—and that's only one day's gross."

"How did the word get around that you didn't pay off?"

"I don't know. But it spread like wildfire. I can't get a play over a nickel."

"Did the cops find any of the dough when they discovered the corpse?"

"No. There was hardly a plugged nickel anywhere around the place."

"Who took the bet?"

"Big Joe here. He made the rounds, the day the doc bet the twenty dollars."

"Who paid off?"

"Munsey. He says he paid the doc in hundred-dollar bills."

Jigger remained silent, turning the problem over in his mind. "You say the cops have done nothing so far?"

"Nothing except rag me every half-hour since the killing. It's got my goat."

"What makes you think I can help?"

Josey looked disgruntled. "Are we going to do that wait-me-around again? I know you can help. I've been looking you over thoroughly. Along Broadway you're known as an ace troubleshooter. What I like is that you're no copper. I want you to help me on this one."

Jigger cast sheep's eyes at the squat piles of greenbacks on the desk. One of the men was stacking and snapping rubber bands around individual piles.

Jigger hemmed and hawed warily. "Murder is way out of my line, Josey. I'm just a sort of public relations counsel."

"It's worth a piece of change to me, Jigger."

"How much?"

"A thousand—and expenses."

"How do I know you're not responsible for the death of the doc, Josey?"

Josey looked carefree for the first time that night. "You're sharp, Jigger. You'll know soon enough. If I'm phonying you up, you can throw the whole thing back in my lap. But first look it over."

Jigger edged toward the desk. "So you want to engage me as public relations counsel?"

"Call it what you like."

"And you're offering five grand as a fee—win or lose?"

"Five grand—win. One grand—lose. Don't try holding me up, Jigger."

"Let's see some folding money."

Jigger's hand swept the desk. "Count it yourself."

Jigger's fingers scampered, nervously through the stacks, under close watch.

"Okay, Josey. I'll take a chance on you. But only for the time being until I get a line on what's up. Drop a formal letter in the mails engaging me as public relations counsel. Don't forget to sign it."

Chapter 3

The sun was a great red ball rimmed with fire. Broadway was a gigantic wave of rollicking sound and a dripping sea of faces.

Jiggers caught the express elevator in the 1501 Building and got off at the thirty-second floor. Halfway down the hall he turned the knob on a door that read INDEPENDENT FEATURE NEWS SERVICE.

The anteroom was deserted and Jigger opened a door that was plainly marked PRIVATE.

A young man with close red hair on a small brow and a look of habitual preoccupation glanced up from a typewriter.

"Lo, Jigger."

"Hello, Red. Where's the office girl?"

"Gone."

"What for?"

"No dough."

"I thought she was satisfied with coffee and a by-line."

"She was. But it dwindled down to just a by-line."

Jigger lit a cigarette and burst into a fit of coughing. His eyes fixed on the droop of Red's shoulders. Red was skinny and had no vices; a guy that preferred a shoeshine to a fifteen-cent Nedick's breakfast if he couldn't have both. It was easy to like Red.

Jigger's voice was strangled. "Going getteth tough again?"

"And how. Six weeklies that took our features canceled out."

"So what? Keep plugging."

"It's a waste of postage, Jigger. Just can't compete with the big syndicates. I'm going back to plain and simple theatrical pressagging with a little playwrighting on the side."

Red grinned without humor. "Who knows? I might yet hit the jackpot with a play."

Jigger piped a bar from "Happy Days Are Here Again" in his morning voice and Red's face curled in to an oh-yeah.

"Red, you got to keep pitching. With City News out, et cetera, et cetera, there are plenty of live openings coming up. What's the back rent situation?"

Red made a wry face. "A hundred bucks. And twenty more for the phone company."

Jigger tolled at a bulging wallet and three three bills on the desk. "Here's three C's. Got the office girl's phone number? You need her for a front."

Red continued to look penitless. "It's no go this time, Jigger. I can't let you breathe life into this crypt and more. What's the use in keeping a corpse alive?"

"It's useful to me, Red."

"Jigger, you're off your nut. Where can you get three hundred dollars' worth of use out of this office?"

"It's been plenty useful to me this far, pal." Jigger was emphatic.

"You never broke a story."

Jigger said slyly. "But I suppressed plenty."

Red's scowl deepened. "Jigger, besides sleeping, eating, breathing larceny—what goes on in that mind of yours?"

Jiggers stuck his neck out cautiously in self-diagnosis. "Generally, Red, people have a fascination for me. I like to find out for sure, over and over again, what makes them bounce, squeal, dream, laugh. It helps me establish my own identity beyond any doubt; get to know myself better."

Jigger patted Red on the head and concluded, "That's a thin slice of the generality of me. Specifically, Red, I'm after a four-thousand-dollar balance Little Josey in gangling under my nose."

Red looked startled. "Four thousand? What do you have to do? Murder?"

"Nail a murderer. Unless Josey fed me doctored bait."

"That's Josey's specialty, pal. The double-cross."

"We'll see."

Red said, "Wait a minute, Jigger, you don't mean we?"

"Sure thing. We're, get it, we're tackling the case of the Yorkville doctor from a crime reporter's angle. No use trying to mix it. Red, unless you want to try a thirty-two story drop without a parachute."

Red drew his eyes together. "Yorkville doctor? I remember. That was a headline tail end of last week."

Red looked at Jigger meditatively. "I don't know, Jigger. My adventure complex isn't half the size of yours. I'm still an earnest young man anxious to get ahead in journalism without too many black marks."

Jigger said soothingly. "I know, Red. I'm very devoted to your career—and neck. I would not have anything happen to them for the world."

"How about for four thousand dollars?" Red said dourly.

"Or four thousand dollars. You mustn't be so prejudiced against me because I believe wholeheartedly in the profit motive, Red. It's the American Way."

Red looked resigned. "What can I do?"

"I have a few yeoman chores mapped out for you."

"Such as?"

Jigger barked it out newscaster style. "One: start up a series on the rise of crimes of violence as a result of the larger world spectrum of violence. You know, the old social psychology line. Grind the copy out in mimeo and start flooding the nation's press via the mails. No charge. Give it away."

Red grimaced and reached for a pad and pencil.

"Two: buy up a file of homicides in the American scene, past and present. Hire a student to do library research if you must. Jam your file cabinet full."

Red scribbled memory cues.

"Three: get that strawberry blonde back if you can. She gives the office respectability."

Red looked up from his pad. "Is that all? That's only a short order, bud. There's ten bucks left of your three hundred."

Jigger grinned affably. "Four: give me an assignment, in writing and on IFNS stationery, to do metropolitan field work on current crimes and their social significance."

Red got up on his feet and salaamed. "Then what, master?"

"We'll see. On the basis of developments. Meanwhile, all this gives plausibility to my strong interest in the strange death of the Yorkville doctor. Just in case the D.A. makes gurgling sounds of disapproval at me." Jigger skipped to the door. "Is it all straight in your mind, Red?"

"I suppose so." Red registered doubt, perplexity, disgust.

Jigger went through the door and down the elevator.

ANTWERP AGAIN TO BE CENTER FOR DIAMONDS

Antwerp, (AP)—Half of the world's diamond industry has returned to this historic European trading center, in the year since the end of hostilities in Europe.

Control of the world diamond market has been centered in the dimly lit little offices and shops along Antwerp's ancient Rue du Pelican for 500 years, but the war scattered the industry to the four corners of the earth. Merchants in Palestine, Brazil, Canada and the United States grasped feverishly for the market during the war years, but it came home to Antwerp again—and quickly.

During 1945, even though half the year was crippled by war, Antwerp exported almost $20,000,000 in diamonds. In the first two months of 1946 almost half of that value was exported, mostly to the United States.

No Strikes in 500 Years

"It is the cutting and polishing that counts," says Albert Rudelsheim, general manager of the Belgian diamond industry syndicate. "The diamond cutters in Palestine or South America may have two or three years experience, but in Belgium it is a closed industry, passed down from father to son. Our diamond cutters profit from 500 years of experience."

"Diamonds have character," says Juda Polak, secretary of the syndicate to which every diamond merchant in Belgium belongs. "It takes a man who understands diamonds to bring out that character."

Diamond cutters and polishers in Belgium make from 2,000 to 4,000 francs a week (about $40 to $80) which is about twice the average wage in the country.

"There has never been a strike in all these 500 years," Polak says.

The industry is controlled by a national commission of workers and merchants. Any differences that might arise are settled amicably by this body.

Littlestown Business Life Begins At "The Square" And Extends On 4 Main Streets

The street markers call it North Queen street. Borough maps designate it as such, but to many Littlestown residents, the broad avenue leading into the town from the north is more familiarly known as Gettysburg street, just as East King street is "Hanover street" and South Queen street is "Baltimore street."

Dr. Richard M. Phreaner, a leading dentist of Littlestown, has his offices on the first floor of the building at the northwest corner of "the square" in Littlestown. The square marks the intersection of the aforementioned streets, and the heart of the Littlestown business district.

Dr. Phreaner left a lucrative practice to enter the services during World War II, and but recently returned to resume his practice. He was one of the founders of the Littlestown Fish and Game association.

Opposite the dentist's office is Littlestown's "green grocery," operated by Paul Bowman. After extensive remodeling and installation of new equipment in his enlarged place of business, Mr. Bowman re-opened his store May 31 as a self-service headquarters for all kinds of staple groceries, fresh fruits and vegetables, frozen foods, meats and other items found in such a store.

Owens Store and Apartments
Mr. Bowman owns the building occupied by the store and the apartments upstairs. He purchased it a year ago. He has been in the grocery business for this corner for the past six years, and formerly worked for Bankert and Beamer in the grocery business.

North on North Queen street from the square are several other business places. Herring's well-known meat market is just below Dr. Phreaner's office on the west side of the street. Almost too well known to need mention to Littlestown residents, it offers everything available in the line of fresh meats and meat products.

The Littlestown shoe repair shop and the Richfield gasoline service station are also well-known places of business on the west side of this street, as well as the office of Roger J. Keefer, borough secretary insurance and real estate broker and notary public.

Possibly best informed of all Littlestown residents concerning the history and modern development of the community, Mr. Keefer has been borough secretary for many years. Members of the council have expressed themselves as saying that he is one of the best borough secretaries in the country. His minutes of the meetings, prepared with complete details, all under separate headings, have been called the finest ever seen by a number of borough officials who have also had experience with other boroughs.

Pioneer Family

The Keefer family in itself is one of the repositories of Littlestown history as well as being one of the oldest families in the community, with the borough secretary's father now one of the oldest men in the community, with memories running back to before the Civil War period and the construction of the railroad through the community.

Farther north is located the jewelry business of George A. (Sonny) Mattland, Jr., and this side of the street also has the Littlestown farm equipment store and service shop of the Melvin J. Sheffer estate, whose manager is Arthur C. Sheets. This store was opened April 7, 1945. It carries a full line of farm equipment, including McCormick-Deering, and has a full commercial refrigeration sales and service and Crosley electric appliances. More than 5,000 repair parts are carried in stock.

The business was established by John Henry Sheffer in association with David Frey in August, 1893. Mr. Sheffer died in 1895. His son, Melvin continued the business with Mr. Frey until 1912, when he purchased the Frey holdings. He died January 4, 1943, and his executors, the widow and two sons, operate the business.

Walter Shoemaker's Chevrolet garage on the west side of North Queen is one of the largest establishments of its kind in the community. In addition to the brick structure housing the main garage a smaller frame garage to the rear of the Shoemaker home houses school buses operated by Mr. Shoemaker, machinery and other equipment.

In addition to his garage Mr. Shoemaker is also constructing along the Gettysburg road a bulk gasoline storage plant.

One of the town's oldest business establishments, Charles F. McCaffrey's stables, is to be found next, north of Shoemaker's more modern garage.

Still Thriving Business
Despite the fact that the horse has to a large extent been replaced by the automobile for transportation, the McCaffrey establishment is still busy. No longer do the stately stallions draw the highly ornamented carriages of former years, but the cattle and horse selling business is still important and McCaffrey's business in dealing in horses and cattle remains as great as ever.

W. G. Weikert, the man who for over thirty years has cared for the watches, clocks and jewelry of Littlestown's residents is next, going

Scouts Addressed By New Reformed Pastor

Troop No. 84, B.S.A., Littlestown, met Thursday evening in the scout room. Paul E. King, chairman of the Troop committee, gave a talk, as did L. D. Snyder, a member of the committee. Rev. Frank E. Reynolds, new pastor of Redeemer's Reformed church, was introduced, and gave an interesting talk.

Saturday the Boy Scouts will go to Natural Dam to clean up the camp site. They will also enjoy swimming. The following Saturday the local scouts will join with other scouts of Adams county in a tour of the Gettysburg battlefield and other points of interest in Gettysburg. The Littlestown Troop committee will hold a meeting on Tuesday evening.

Gathered Over Three Tons Of Food In Drive

The Emergency Food Collection was highly successful. The committee received donations of 168 cases of canned goods, weighing 6,562 pounds, and $350.38 in cash. Donations were solicited from individuals, factories, churches, and lodges. Edward T. Richardson, general chairman of the Littlestown committee, has expressed his thanks to the committee for their splendid efforts, and to all citizens who helped in the success of the food collection.

TO INSTALL NEW PASTOR
Rev. Frank E. Reynolds, new pastor at Redeemer's Reformed church, will be installed Sunday evening at 7 p. m., by the Mercersburg Synodical Council. Rev. Howard S. Fox, Gettysburg, president of the synod, will preach the sermon. The public is invited.

north on the east side of North Queen street.

George Collins' cigar factory still turns out the famous Buddy Juniors for those in Littlestown who find a good cigar a pleasure. The pleasant odor of tobacco is ingrained in the little frame building to the rear of Collins' house where the factory continues day after day to turn out thousands of cigars.

The Littlestown Esso Servicenter provides a familiar note to Esso users of the community. Its style follows generally the service establishments of that type throughout the nation.

Albert Brookhouse, a member of the U. S. Marine corps during the war, runs a grocery store a little further north on the street. Mr. Brookhouse took over the store about a year ago, and has steadily increased its business since that time.

New Wintode Garage
R. L. Crouse's garage on North Queen street once could be found on South Queen street. A number of years ago Crouse built the concrete block garage at what was then the end of town. Now the Plymouth and Dodge establishment will soon be surrounded by the community. New streets are being laid out, one to the rear of the garage and the other to the south of the structure.

In addition a new garage is being placed to the north of the Crouse business place with C. R. Wintode constructing the new establishment. The Crouse business, once practically in the country, is also expected to be surrounded by houses within the near future when building materials are available. Plans on the part of borough residents call for the construction of a number of new houses on the new streets when the extensions are completed.

Clear out of town, but technically a part of North Queen street are the Sneringer cement block works and stone quarry. The quarry, long since filled with water is no longer used, but the cement block business and selling of stone has increased throughout the years.

OLD CARRIAGE REPOSITORY IS SALVAGE DEPOT

A relic of the gas-light age when grandfather raced his carriage against his rivals through the main streets of town has become in Littlestown the site of the most modern and yet most ancient of trades—"beating swords into plowshares."

The aged building that still bears the sign of a more sedate age: "Mehring's Carriage Repository" now rings to the sound of heavy hammers salvaging motorized machine gun mounts that were to be part of Martin bombing planes for the U. S. Navy, but which arrived at the Maryland plant after the atomic bomb had heralded the end of the war and the arrival of a new era.

Lawrence Crouse is in charge of salvaging operation by which electric motors, gears, rear view mirrors, and everything else salvageable are removed from the gun mounts and then the heavy metal rings that acted not only as bases for the mounts, but as armor for the gunners are being broken up, to eventually be transformed into metal once more and used again for the purposes of peace.

Later Used As Garage
The building, owned by H. D. Crouse, of Littlestown is frame and has been boarded up for years. The men working there on the salvage job say it has two families living in it—a family of pigeons upstairs and a family of skunks in the basement.

The building, according to the faded, painted signs must have been converted with the change of years to the more modern "carriage," the automobile, for a sign across the front door gives evidence that at one time someone used it as an agency for autos, apparently in the days when the intrepid driver of a motor vehicle put on first his linen duster and gloves and goggles and then began the perilous work of cranking the machine.

The days when Littlestown was a thriving center of wagon manufacture is recalled by the sign, "Carriage Repository." Much of the history of the 19th century in Littlestown is contained in that sign.

Among the carriage makers who once conducted the most important business in Littlestown was Solomon D. Mehring, who started out as a youngster to learn his trade with the famous firm of Sell and Blocher of Littlestown, once makers of top-ranking carriages. In 1880 he opened his own carriage business and soon found he had to find new quarters. At one time he employed 15 hands the year around turning out carriages from $100 up, putting into them the finest quality materials obtainable. The Southland that had once been the purchasing point for most Adams county carriages no longer bought in such great quantities as before, but the north had found out the quality of its own manufacturers and there was little difficulty in disposing of the vehicles.

Not only does the building carry with it the traditions and heritage of Littlestown history, but the Crouse name itself is one of the oldest in Littlestown. There was John Crouse, a native of Lancaster county who came to the Littlestown area in the 18th century. There was William Crouse who was a member of the draft board for Littlestown and vicinity in the Civil War and was the first burgess Littlestown ever had.

37 PUPILS IN LITTLESTOWN PASS HI EXAM

Thirty-seven Littlestown eighth grade students, all who took the examination, secured passing marks in the annual high school entrance examinations, the office of the county superintendent of schools revealed today.

The district was one of the few in the county in which every youngster taking the test passed. Three of the students secured better than 325 points in the test which has a total of 400 possible points.

Earl H. Humbert, whose mother, Mrs. Ruth Humbert is a teacher in the Conewago township schools and formerly was a teacher at Littlestown, won second honors in the county with a 354 score. The highest mark in the county went to an East Berlin student.

Second Highest

Second highest in the Littlestown group was Richard Edgar Wolfe with a score of 336 and Ralph Geiss LeGore was third with 327.

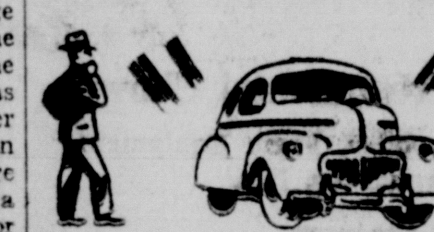

The list of students passing the test includes Harriet Lillian Badders, Gladys Augusta Baughman, Jacqueline Marilyn Baughman, Richard Emerson Boyd, Charles Oscar Brown, Mary Clara Reberta Clingan, Leah Mae Crebs, June Elizabeth Currens, Peggy Olive Dearborn, Norma Gloria Ecker, Everett Arien Feeser, Clyde Edward Good, Gene A. Hankey, Eleanor Louise Harner, Robert Francis Harner, Betty Jane Hoopert, Earl H. Humbert, Janet Marie Kenna, Lee Leroy Kerns, Evan Daniel Kline, Jr., William Roger Kress, Thelma Annabell Krumrine, Ralph Geiss LeGore, Jane Louise Miller, June Marie Miller, Alma Marie Reaver, Mary Louise Renner, Kenneth Joseph Rice, Jean Susan Stair, Ruth Rebecca Staub, Loyse Benita Waltman, Gloria Marie Warner, Shirley Mae Weikert, Richard Edgar Wolfe, Dorothy Lou Woolf, Eloise Marie Yealy and Charlotte Adelaide Yingling.

St. Luke's Union Sunday school will hold its annual Children's Day program Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Following the meeting, there will be a joint meeting of the Lutheran Council and the Reformed Consistory.

Mr. and Mrs. William Chambers, Philadelphia, parents of Mrs. David S. Kammerer, William Chambers, Jr., and daughter Claire, Philadelphia, and Robert Chambers, Orange, N. J., were guests at St. Paul's Lutheran parsonage over the week-end. They were here to attend the wedding of Paul Kammerer, son of Rev. and Mrs. D. S. Kammerer.

The Littlestown State bank, the Littlestown National bank, and the State Liquor store are closed in observance of Flag Day.

Last Day Of School

We are proud of our schools. To teachers and students alike we extend best wishes for a happy and restful vacation.

Students of today will be leaders of tomorrow. Money spent to maintain our schools at their high standard is one of the best of investments. It pays dividends in better citizenry, by making a more progressive community, and by enabling our young people to compete with others on equal terms in a world where education is a requisite for success.

To teachers, students, and all who are most interested in our schools we extend congratulations for a year's work well done—and we shall welcome any opportunity to be of service.

Legion To Sponsor Blood Donor Plan

John W. Ocker Post No. 321, American Legion, decided at its meeting last evening to sponsor a blood donor service to the community. The blood of volunteers will be typed and made available to the physicians of the town. A committee composed of Lewis H. Fox, Stanley B. Stover and Francis J. Will, was appointed to make arrangements and report at the next meeting.

E. A. Sell, Belleville, N. J., a member of the Ocker post, was a guest at the meeting, and gave a short talk.

Wilbur E. Mackley, chairman of the Legion Carnival committee, gave a report at the meeting last evening. Music will be furnished Thursday, July 4, by the Littlestown high school band. Happy Johnny and his boys will furnish entertainment Friday, July 5; and on Saturday, July 6, Curly Joe and his Round-Up Gang will be on hand. The Ladies' Auxiliary will be in charge of the refreshment stand, and there will be on sale hot and cold chicken, hot beef, hamburgers, and hot dogs. The Legion will hold its next meeting on Thursday, June 20.

Finds Turtle He Initialed In 1909

While hunting strawberries on his mother's farm Sunday, Charles A. Hofe, Littlestown contractor, came across a turtle on which he had carved his initials, those of a friend, and the date, 1909, when he was a boy 10 years old. The carving: C.A.H. 1909, E.F.K., on the bottom of the turtle are still plainly visible.

The other initials were those of Eugene F. Kuhn, who has been deceased about eight years. The turtle was found in an abandoned stone quarry on the farm. One of the children picked it up, and Mr. Hofe then noticed his carvings of 37 years ago. The animal was returned to its life-long haunt after being shown to a Times reporter. Mr. Hofe's father, Augustus Hofe, is deceased, but his mother still lives on the farm.

"ENJOY" FISHING TRIP

Karl P. Bankert, Walter B. Crouse, and Melvin B. Wehler have returned home after a two-day fishing trip at Fishermen's Paradise, Bellefonte. While this is rated an excellent spot for a catch, Mr. Wehler states that he has spent nine days there without getting even a bite. He has renamed the place "Fishermen's Purgatory."

The Story Of Andrew Schreiber (Shriver) Early Town Settler

The years passed slowly. There was a mounting tide of discontent that Andrew could feel.

At first he chuckled about it: "The Scotch-Irish," he said, "have no love for the British and the Germans don't like anybody."

But as time passed the matter no longer was a joke and the talk grew more and more bitter.

Most of the Germans had been disturbed years earlier by the worries of the Penns and the British over the number of the Germans that were coming into the colonies.

But that had passed when the years had gone by and nothing had been done by the authorities.

Fearful Radical Change

Andy had remained a stubborn Dutchman convinced that things were well enough as they were and that a change would probably cause more difficulties than there were at present.

Against him mounted the tide. Young Andy was a forthright advocate of change. He argued long with his father and his brother joined in. Even Andy's daughters were beginning to talk, when engaged in their household tasks, about the need to be free of "oppressive British laws."

The matter even came into the sermons at Christ church. There were still many, though, who sided with Andrew. Old Germans who felt that they had had most of what they wanted, that the laws had not been too harsh. They remembered what freedom there was in America compared to the lands of their birth, and they were not for radical change.

The matter came to a head one day:

Tension Grows

Von Kitzmiller was angry. His face had always been reddish, but now it was crimson. He slapped savagely at his boots, the tops of weeds, at the door frame of Andrew's distillery.

Andy, by nature a man of peace, wondered at the anger of Kitzmiller, and of George Agnew and McClain, who had happened together at the cabin.

Andy had come running to the door when the men had first started to speak loudly, fearing that the old argument between Dutchman and Irishman had broken out again on his premises.

But the men who had learned to forget their hostility during the war against the Indians and French were not fighting, this was something bigger than personal grudges.

Protest British Action

"You are agreed—yet you sound more like a fight than those who disagree," said Andrew and all three joined forces against him.

"Do you know what the British have done?" Kitzmiller asked. Andy confessed he had heard of no new difficulties.

"They would keep the colonies from manufacturing anything, from having machinery, because they feel that if the colonies could manufacture England could not sell."

Andrew looked past Kitzmiller toward the trees. He saw peaceful land stretching out before him, land where corn grew plentiful, where cattle grazed serene. He heard the humming of bees over the land, and the soft drone of flies. He felt the softness of summer air against his face and missed none of the scene although his mind worked slowly over the new thought.

Peace for Decade

"It was not so many years ago that the King of England was blessed, for he had allowed a land where men could come to be free. Where there was no compulsion. You see those fields, you see the cattle and the trees. They are mine. In this land of the Penns I can grow rich and comfortable. Even the Indian has been quieted, and there has been peace a decade."

"Do you think of nothing but your own business?" asked Agnew "and if the King stops manufacturing, if the laws of England become more and more oppressive, what then becomes of your lands and your distillery and your home. If parliament and the king can tax and stop manufacturing it can do anything."

"It was not so long ago that this was suggested, and then we were to seek representation from the king in parliament. The demands are continuing for that. Soon perhaps it will come and then nothing can be done to us with which we do not agree." Andy was a long time with the words. He was not a talkative man.

"A free Nation"

"Perhaps representation is enough for you," said Kitzmiller, "but the best way is to become a free nation."

WORLD CHAMPION PRODUCER Milked with McCormick-Deering Milker

1,409 pounds of butterfat in one year, from 27,745 pounds of 5.08% milk. That's the record that won the title of world champion producer for Alcatraz Gerben, five-year-old purebred Holstein owned by Hays Ltd., Calgary, Alberta, Canada.

"Alcatraz Gerben has been milked with a McCormick-Deering Milker for 10 months of her record-shattering performance," says Harry Hays, president of Hays Ltd., "and as far as we know, this is the first time a record has been made by a cow milked with a milking machine. . . . We have been using a McCormick-Deering Milker for our herd of purebred Holsteins for the last seven years and have been well satisfied with its service and performance."

Ask us how a McCormick-Deering Milker and a program of Managed Milking can help you get the maximum production from your dairy herd.
